ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SPEAKER AND SCOTS

IT IS, perhaps, trite to say that elections are as big a gamble as horse racing, with the results just as uncertain of prediction, but that applies as much to the forthcoming British election as it did to our recent local by-election.

However, one thing certain about the new British House of Commons is that when it assembles for the first time, no matter what the political complexion of the government may be, there will be a new Speaker to occupy the chair. For, according to a news broadcast from Britain, Col. the Rt. Hon. D. Clifton-Brown, the Conservative who held that office throughout the last three parliaments, has announced his retirement.

HEAVY RESPONSIBILITY

WHILE in London this summer I had more than one opportunity of meeting Col. Clifton-Brown and seeing him on duty in the House, and he informed me at the time of his intention of retiring from parliamentary office at the end of the session. No longer a young man, he was finding the strain of the session, with its long and continuous sittings and political tensions, too much for him.

I could well understand it, for while M.P.'s could occasionally steal away to snatch a brief rest, the Speaker was more or less chained to the chair. And the unfortunate incident in which the Deputy Speaker, Major the Rt. Hon. James Milner, was involved in connection with his ruling over the Conservative amendments relating to the petrol tax, probably kept the Speaker even more closely to his chair than he would otherwise have been.

DIFFICULT DECISIONS

CHAIRING the British House of Commons is not an easy job at the best of times. With 625 M.P.'s to keep in order—even to remember their names is no small undertaking—the Speaker has to be constantly on the alert ready to meet any situation which may arise. And how they could arise with the government tight-rope-walking on such a narrow margin!

It was my good fortune to see Col. Clifton-Brown exercising his authority during some critical and contentious debates, when party tensions were taut and tempers flared. Yet, despite the strain, his decisions were seldom challenged, this constituting a rare tribute to his sound judgment and fairness.

STRIKE WITH SCOTS

BUT THERE WAS one memorable occasion, in June, when he trod too heavily on the national susceptibilities of the Scottish members of whom there are 71 in the House. It was during question period, which occupies one full hour every day at the opening of the sitting, and under which private members may direct written questions to ministers, who answer them orally.

On the day in question, June 5, several Scots had already asked questions relative to their constituencies when the Speaker complained that too much time was being devoted to questions on Scottish affairs. When Col. Walter Elliot, Conservative M.P. for Kelvingrove, protested, Col. Clifton-Brown replied: "Each one has taken a tremendously long time and, after all, Scotland is only part of the United Kingdom."

HORRIBLE HERESY

SUCH HERESY, naturally, wouldn't be taken lying down by any true Scot, even from a Speaker, and the Scots present rose almost en masse in anger. Nor did it help matters when the Speaker suggested that Scottish questions should go to the Scottish-Grand Committee, instead of, as at present, to the Secretary of State for Scotland or his deputy.

Mrs. Jean Mann, Labor member for Coatbridge, added a little fuel to the flames when, in her broad Scotch burr, she caustically asked: "When is there likely to be a surplus of eggs in Scotland? Will they be sent to England or to the Scottish Grand Committee?"

MAXIMUM BARRAGE

NO Scots who hae wi' Wallace bled weren't going to be downed by any Sassenach Speaker as easily as all that. M.P.'s are allowed to ask a maximum of three questions on any day, so the Scottish Socialists got together and framed no less than 50 with which to harass Rt. Hon. Hector McNeill, Secretary of State for Scotland; the following week, I wasn't there so don't know how they fared. But I wouldn't have been surprised to hear that some irate Scot had hurled the Stone of Scone at somebody's head.

Needless to say, the Speaker's contention that too much time was being taken up in the British Parliament with questions that applied only to Scotland was seized upon with avidity as a war weapon by the Covenanters, who have long been battling for home rule for Scotland. And who can blame them?

Evangelist Preaches By Ventriloquism

SALINA, Kan. (UP)—Dr. E. D. Janzen does his own preaching, with an unusual twist.

Janzen passes off much of his work to four helpers, Effie Miller, Joe Screwbail, Karl Kraut and Nellie Lou Miller. They are wooden dolls, dependent upon Janzen's skill as a ventriloquist for their words of gospel.

Janzen was graduated from the Chicago School of Ventriloquism and worked his routine into the church.

The dolls have worked out just fine, he said. "When children listen, the story is so impressed upon their minds that they never forget it," the evangelist explained.

Knew King And Queen, Eager To See Princess

Government House Staff Unperturbed By Impending Visit Of Throne Heir

They found the King and Queen "lovely people"—and are eagerly awaiting the visit of Their Majesties' daughter and her sailor prince.

For a trio of Government House employees and a fourth, now retired, the stay of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh at the Lieutenant-Governor's mansion is of special interest. The responsibility leaves them unperturbed.

They helped to make Government House ready for the visit of the King and Queen in 1939 and still bear mementoes of the occasion—cuff links or brooches with tiny replicas of the royal coat of arms.

ON STAFF 24 YEARS

looking over details of the visit is Capt. J. G. Cromack, secretary, who has been at Government House for 24 years. "Oh yes, I have reason to remember their visit," he said looking proudly at the cuff links with the inscription "E.R.G.R."

Next is Miss Jane Tait, who was in charge of bedrooms at Government House during the last Royal visit. Retired in 1944, she will return for part-time duties during the Princess' visit. "I saw the Queen only for four minutes, but she was lovely."

Beresford Davies, head gardener, employed since the last Royal visit, is counting on chrysanthemums for the main floral display. Another comparative "newcomer," James Grierson, head butler, poses at the door which he will open for the Royal couple when they arrive at Government House.

Arranging dinner tables and flowers for the visitors, among her other duties, will be the work of Miss Mary Fraser, lower left, housekeeper since 1926. "I'm naturally looking forward to the event... the Queen acted just like any other guest. They were lovely people."

Not pictured is Chew Chung Leung, cheery head chef for the past quarter century, who will be in charge of the kitchen as he was during the visit of the King and Queen.

If Churchill Wins

IF THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY is elected to office this month no sudden change in Britain's position need be expected. That position assuredly will grow worse before it grows better.

The nation is now entering another of those familiar crises which socialist planning was guaranteed to avoid. Already the curbs on electricity, the shortage of coal in industry and, most serious of all, the deficit in foreign trade assure a dark winter which, at this point, no government can hope to avoid. The Conservative party, if elected, will inherit a barren estate.

It may have plans to arrest this downward momentum of the British economy. If so, they have not been revealed so far in the election campaign. As is usual with oppositions the Conservatives are seeking refuge in generalities.

They propose to halt the spread of nationalization but this creates no clear issue between them and the government, since the government also has abandoned further nationalization.

The Conservatives would return the newly-nationalized steel industry to private hands but there the immediate dispute on socialism between government and opposition ceases.

On the central problem of foreign trade, the source of, Britain's life, there is no clear distinction between the two parties. Both rely on the theory that somehow Britain can prosper by concentrating its trade within the Commonwealth and any other willing partners of a restricted sterling trade area—this despite all the lessons of the past.

Neither party proposes a trading policy into which the economy of Canada—potentially by far the richest of the Commonwealth nations—can be fitted. Neither proposes a policy of trade satisfactory to the United States, the governing factor in the world economy.

Both are following a protectionist policy when the need of the world, and of Britain in particular, is the reconstruction of a freely-trading world market.

On the other hand—and this is the most satisfactory aspect of the election—both are agreed on the necessity of rearmament and neither would undo the vital work of the North Atlantic Treaty. One important result would follow a Conservative victory—the relations between Britain and the United States certainly would improve. Rightly or wrongly the existence of a socialist government in Britain has antagonized large and powerful elements in the United States Congress. The return of Mr. Churchill, the wartime partner of Franklin Roosevelt, would kindle new co-operation in the United States. Perhaps Mr. Churchill's chief claim to power is his ability to work harmoniously with the Americans.

On the other hand a Conservative government could face grave antagonism among the British labor unions, which have generally supported their own Labor government but might refuse this support to a party which they regard as their historic enemy.

Of this Mr. Churchill is keenly aware. Hence his attack on class conflict, his appeal for national unity in a moment of deepening crisis. Either under the Conservatives or under another Labor government able to govern—as the present government is not—that national unity will be required from now on if Britain is to avoid disasters which would affect every free nation in the world.

Under Fire

AT THE FORTHCOMING SESSION of Parliament the St. Laurent Government doubtless will face its first real baptism of fire. Every household in the land will be affected by the government's ability to endure temporary unpopularity for the policies it knows to be sound.

The attack, we may be sure, will be concentrated on the government's refusal to invoke a half-baked and unworkable system of price controls.

The C.C.F. has always stood for such a system—and must stand for it as a sacred matter of ideology. Price controls would be a useful beginning for the system of total economic control over the life of everybody for which the C.C.F. stands. In the present emergency it sees the chance to get its foot into the door. The price emergency, therefore, is being exploited for all it is worth.

At the other extreme of politics the Conservative party, the chief enemy of price controls after the war, has been converted to the C.C.F. policy in this respect. Conservatism allies itself with socialism (which it always denounces) in a cynical attempt to damage the government.

So far the government has stood firm against this new and unnatural alliance. And at last the government is getting around to the job of explaining its policy to the people. The best defense of that policy came recently from Mr. Abbott, who reminded the short public memory of a few essential facts. They are worth remembering.

During the last war, said Mr. Abbott, price control seemed to work successfully. At least prices, hardly rose. But the actual control of prices was the least part of that system. Prices were held down, Mr. Abbott says, by savage taxation and high savings, which together reduced the public's demand for goods. If that demand had not been thus syphoned off the fragile decrees of the government could never have held prices down—even with 10,000 officials administering the system.

In addition, wartime price control (so called) involved the regulation of everything. "Do you remember," asks Mr. Abbott, "that you were not allowed to build anything beyond the simplest sort of shelter without getting a permit from Ottawa? That you could not buy a car, a stove or a new tire unless you could prove a dire emergency and get a government permit? That your wages and salaries were frozen and that you could not quit your job or take a new job without obtaining a permit from a government official?"

That was wartime price control—not a mere decree fixing prices but the government management of everybody's personal life. Only that kind of control would have any chance of working now. But the Conservative and socialist allies are not talking of anything so disagreeable. They are promising a little, easy and painless system which could not work, as they well know, but it is a good way to attract votes.

In the war, as Mr. Abbott says, Canadians accepted complete regimentation because the emergency was short-run. They could see the end of it. Today's emergency, he observes, may last ten or fifteen years or a whole generation. We cannot install complete regimentation now and count on any orderly liquidation of it in the visible future. But it would liquidate itself before long in chaos since the public would revolt against it, evade it and finally destroy it.

That is the government's belief and unquestionably the government is right. It remains to be seen whether the government can stand up to the pounding of opposition parties which cannot really believe in the policy—if it can be called a policy—which they are publicly advocating.

Still More Needed

THE IMPORTANCE OF INCREASING the Canadian tourist industry, valuable these past few years as a source of American dollars, is now more marked than ever. For figures on this year's trade show that for the first time in a quarter of a century Canadian tourist spending in other countries may equal, or even exceed, the amount spent by tourists who visit us.

During the first half of this year, one-third more Canadians holidayed abroad than in the same period in 1950. The result is that the conditions of a few years ago—when tourist spending in Canada was three times what Canadians spent in other countries—no longer exist. From a financial standpoint we are now only holding our own. More tourists must be encouraged here to balance the picture, if Canadians are to increase their spending outside our borders—if the tourist industry as a whole is to be a credit item in our national economy rather than a debit.

Another development to be noted from the recent season is the fact that while the number of visitors from the United States increased, the actual amount spent was down. This indicates that shorter visits, and more restricted holiday budgets were the order of the day. As the United States economy swings more and more into war production this condition may be expected to continue next year. It is a point to which those concerned with our organized efforts to attract visitors to Canada should give attention. And the campaign might well start with a determination to give American visitors an experience of things Canadian rather than subject them to a re-hash of foods, styles and customs which they have left behind them at home.

In any event we shall not relish a return to the monetary and travelling restrictions which the post-war shortage of dollars enforced on us. To avoid them it is obvious that we must give full encouragement to potential visitors from the south. That is a program in which every Canadian who sees a tourist or speaks to one can take part. Being made welcome is the first gesture which every visitor will expect to find here. It will determine not only our prospects of seeing him again, but of having a chance to see the friends and neighbors to whom he will describe his reception when he returns home.

Hot Words And Cold Facts

THE LITTLE NATION OF IRAN HAS spoken with a big voice in announcing, through the medium of its minister to The Hague, that it will defy an adverse ruling by the United Nations on the oil dispute with Britain. The defiance was uttered as the Iranian minister left for New York, where the Security Council will consider the issue raised by the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian oil industry. But the seizure will stand, says the spokesman, "even if the Security Council votes against it."

That is a much different attitude to that which Iran has displayed in 1946, when its northern district of Azerbaijan was menaced by Russian invasion and Iran sought United Nations aid. It is a short memory—and an onset of extreme nationalism—that now leads this little but important country to claim independence of world opinion. Iran should understand the U.N. better than that, and the importance of upholding the integrity and authority of that organization. It was the moral power of the United Nations which five years ago saved Iran from invasion by persuading Russia to abandon its warlike adventure. It will become the beneficiary of that morality to repudiate today a Security Council decision, even before it is rendered.

On its part, the U.N. could not ignore such a rejection of its authority. As it refused to be bullied by the Soviet over the Azerbaijan incident, so it cannot permit a lesser power to treat it with defiance. No doubt Prime Minister Mossadegh and his ministers will receive enlightenment as the Security Council debate progresses. Stronger influences can be brought to bear on Iran if her gratitude is dead.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

AN ENORMOUS bloc of the world's population is united by a single bond. This bond is its firm belief that nothing an Englishman does can be any good.

When a man who is apparently English does succeed in doing something quite obviously good, then everyone scurries to prove that he was really Welsh or Scots or Irish all the time. You don't need much evidence, either. A distant Irish ancestor will do, or a recent residence in Scotland, or something of that sort. And if the worst comes to the worst, and you can't find even one tiny Welsh grand-mother, why, then you can write the hero off as a Yorkshireman or a Cornishman. This is supposed to make him none too English, and you feel much better.

WE LAUGHED at the Germans for trying to prove that Shakespeare was Teutonic... he must have been German, you see, because he wrote rather well. But we all play this game to some extent. Even the English fall in with the rules very agreeably, and believe us when we tell them Swift was Irish, and so on. Especially in the matter of generals.

THE OTHER DAY I once more ran across the theory that William Blake was really an Irishman named O'Neill. There is no documentary proof of this, but it has been mentioned a lot in recent years and is accepted in some quarters. If he wrote and painted well, he couldn't have been English, could he? His being a little crazy is probably proof of his being Irish, too, for all I know. Anyhow, I wrote a little ditty about Bill's being Irish, and if you don't stop reading at once, you're going to hear me quote it:

William, William, burning bright
In the prosaic English night,
This is no surprise to me
(Whatever it may be to thee),

Of all shining Englishmen
Wielding scapel, sword, or pen,
A few are really Welsh, while lots
Are Irish, and the rest are Scots.

Were you not O'Neill, it's plain
You'd be Jones or else McLean.
You could not be Billy Blake
Unless your lyre you did forsake.

I understand foul England's curse
Inhibiting your writing here.
But this I do not understand:
"England's green and pleasant land!"

Greener than the Wexford shore?
Pleasanter than Ballymore?
Never Irish spoke so free!
Did they who made the Dail make thee?

TOTEM AND TABOO
MUCH HAS been written about totemism. Anthropologists, ethnologists, archaeologists, and psychologists all take a crack at it. Even Freud wrote a book about it, presumably about its seamy side. And I fancy that at U.B.C. you will find totems being studied as a branch of what is called Social Science. But I don't think anyone has written a book yet about the horrible effect of Thunderbirds on the white population of B.C. It's a book that should be written. It would be depressing but revealing.

I HAD ALWAYS imagined the Thunderbird to be nothing but a heavily stylized eagle. This eagle, as the badge of the aborigines who happened to belong to the Eagle branch of their tribe... to the Eagle clan, or whatever it was called. And thus they put it on their coat of arms, which was their totem. I am pretty hazy on all this, but it sticks in my mind that the members of any one clan were not allowed to kill the creature which was their totem. Also, there were laws about marriage between clans, presumably to discourage inbreeding. The totem pole was evidence of what marriages had bred its owner.

WELL, look what's happened to the totem pole now, and to the Thunderbird in particular. This eagle is now evidence that you are a loyal booster of B.C. It is, starting next year, evidence that you have paid the annual tax on your car... you get a free Thunderbird on each license plate, and thus the Motor Vehicles Branch compels you, whether you like it or not, to drive round advertising your fake eagle-ism. If you refuse to turn your car into a billboard and yourself into a bogus redskin of the Eagle clan, then it becomes illegal for you to drive. Which is not only tyranny, but a very nasty pun, what with ill eagle and illegal and all.

Further, I read last month on the business page of this very journal that the Thunderbird is actually the registered and protected trademark of the B.C. Products and Industrial Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade, and permission has to be obtained from that owner of the Thunderbird before the device can be used. However, "any bona fide B.C. manufacturer can readily get permission even if he is not a member of the Vancouver Board of Trade." I presume this includes Indians who wish to record the fact that they belong to the Eagle clan... all they do is write to the Board of Trade.

SO HERE you have a very pretty paradox. It is illegal to make or wear a Thunderbird unless you get a dispensation or indulgence from the Board of Trade. But it is also illegal not to carry two of these creatures on your car next year. You know, there used to be a bounty on live eagles in B.C., and there may still be one for all I know. There isn't really so much loyalty to eagles as we pretend. Anyhow, there are times when I wish we had a bounty on Thunderbirds.

WORDS, WORDS
A CHAP was telling me of his enthusiasm for parrhesia. I said maybe I'd be in favor of it too, if I knew what parrhesia was. He said it meant frankness of speech... plain-spokenness. "Ain't?" I said. Look who's talking! This same nuisance also told me that helicopter should be broken up; thus, helio-pter, Pter meaning wing, and helio meaning whirling. But I was not perturbed at all.

Still Another World Series

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

MY WIFE came out to the shed the other morning and leaning over my camp cot, said: "It's time to get up, dear. I've brought you a piece of toast and a cup of coffee."

I had to use the hot-plate. You can't get near the stove because Miss Anastasia Wiggs is preparing an other mess of Indian curry for the Colonel. Is that all he eats?"

"Sometimes he nibbles at Bombay duck," I said, and sighed. I had been dreaming pleasantly, but I was now back to the cruel world of reality. I looked glumly around the shed that was now our home. We used to have another one—our house—but that is now occupied by our guests, Hamish and Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (ret.) and Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs and Little Augie, the blind-pig king, so we have since moved to the shed.

I must say that we fought against the eviction. The night of their arrival we set up a defensive position in the living room, but we didn't hold it very long. How can you, when a couple of feet away the Colonel is describing to Hamish how he single-handedly defended the Khyber Pass and is demonstrating with a naked cavalry sword? The Colonel gets so worked up emotionally that I feared for our child's life. And all that time Anastasia was mounting her animal heads around the room, and how can you feel at home when a snarling tiger is staring you in the eye from the opposite wall?

So we made—like the Arabs and silently stole away to the shed, where we were comparatively safe.

After the toast and coffee, I decided to see for myself what was happening in the house. I strode into the kitchen, and sure enough, Anastasia was at the stove cooking vile-smelling curry.

"Morning, sahib," she greeted me. At that moment Hamish entered the kitchen. He was carrying a large wrench and various other tools and he merely nodded at me. He disappeared into the utility room and I heard a lot of banging and clanking. Knowing Hamish from a way back, when he was assistant janitor in my old apartment-house, I suddenly got highly nervous.

I was at the door of the living room when he returned and I grabbed him. "What are you doing to my house, Hamish?" I demanded.

He regarded me blandly. "Fixing a few things," he said. "What things?"

"Well, the hot water system for one." "Oh, no?"

"Oh, yes," said Hamish. "I am thinking of your wife. When she comes in to do the dishes she will require a large amount of hot water in the kitchen sink. Your hot water tank has insufficient capacity to supply the kitchen sink and the upstairs bathrooms at the same time. I have merely changed around a few pipes so that now, in the upstairs baths, the hot water comes out of the cold-tap, and the cold water comes out of the hot tap."

"So?"

"Don't be dull," said Hamish. "When anyone wants a bath, he or she will naturally turn on the hot-water tap. When nothing but cold water emerges, he or she will come to the conclusion that there is no hot water in the house, and either decide to 'take a cold bath' or none at all. Result: the hot water is reserved for your wife to do the dishes."

"Hamish," I said, "your concern for my wife is really touching."

It was at that instant that we heard the screams. They came from upstairs and they were terrifying. We ran for the second floor, while shrieks filled the house, and in what used to be my bedroom we found Col. Skeffington-Smuts. He was dripping wet and red all over like a boiled lobster. And he was shouting: "Help! Help! I'm scalding to death! Do something, you gaping idiots!"

Well, I got some anti-burn ointment from the bathroom, where I noticed the tub was filled with water, and Hamish and I gently spread it over the Colonel's livid flesh.

It was a little later, when we were alone, that Hamish shook his head and said to me: "You know, that's a funny thing. I forgot that the Colonel never takes anything but a cold bath. He must have turned on the right tap and got the wrong water. Your wife will have to wait now before she can do the dishes."

Are We Obstructionists?

On a trip I took recently into the interior I saw Sumas Prairie rich and fertile in the fall sunshine. Herds grazed on it. Crops were being harvested. Thousands of people were making livings in ways derived from it.

At Oliver it was much the same.

Yet I remember the time, three decades ago, when the scheme to drain the Vedder marshlands to make Sumas Prairie provoked a battle as fierce as that of Battle Lake. And the plan to bring water to the arid sage bush covered country, surrounding the now flourishing community of Oliver, could precipitate an argument throughout the Upper Country.

Chief difference between those days and these is that we didn't have a well organized opposition with an attractive looking public relations woman. Other-wise Oliver and Sumas Prairie might never have existed.

Are some of us being obstructionists rather than conservationists?

Relief Exchange

There is welcome relief from the tension that grew up over Britain's dispute with Iran in the step to have the matter thrashed out before the Security Council. What the Council can or will do remains to be seen, but recourse to it is a proper move as a means of averting a head-on clash whose consequences would be serious.

This is Britain's second attempt to bring impartial judgment to bear on the dispute. Earlier she went before the World Court at The Hague. The outcome of that action was an interim order to both sides to refrain from action.

QUOTING

Mrs. Nancy Hodges quotes Shelley as having written "Music When Sweet Voices Die, Vibrates in the Memory."

As a life-long student of Shelley's verse, I refuse to believe he ever wrote anything so commonplace, and would much like to know if I'm wrong.

Shelley (when music becomes silent): Ere yet the responses are mute, Which through the deep and labyrinthine soul, Like echoes through long caverns wind and roll! (Prometheus Unbound).

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

The adverse criticism levelled at the government for its Hospital Insurance Act—must seem strange, I feel sure, to the many who have found it a veritable God-send.

If fault there be, I fancy it is in the precipitation without due thought to the ever-increasing demands of the privileged class—the overpaid worker—thus causing the necessary increase of premium.

When we were very young we were taught that, "Fair play is a jewel." Hence this letter.

INTOLERANCE

It is encouraging to read your editorials in regard to the color problem which appears to be arising in London, England. That is—it is encouraging that your paper takes up the cudgels against racial discrimination anywhere and against any race. On the other hand it is extremely discouraging to me as an ex-resident and native of London to hear of such a problem arising there, as it is something I never experienced in that great city in my youth.

However, if we are to overcome such prejudice wherever it appears, we must also be on the alert in our own country and in our own province.

Here is a story recently told to me... During the summer tourist season a Negro and his family asked for accommodation at an auto camp near Vancouver. They were told the camp was "full up." They were not satisfied and asked if they were refused on account of their color. Finally, feeling very embarrassed, the manager told them that it was so, and here is the reason he gave.

Staying at the auto camp were a considerable number of tourists from the U.S.A. who, he said, would immediately move out if he gave accommodation to the Negro family and he could not afford to lose their custom. Incidentally it transpired that the said Negro was a prominent official from one of the larger cities in the U.S.A., and he was later accommodated at one of Vancouver's larger hotels.

If the Charter of the United Nations means what it says; also the Declaration of Human Rights; we as Canadians must do all in our power to stamp out this intolerance. Otherwise we may as well scrap the documents I have mentioned. Canada is a signatory to the Charter and our signature should be honored.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT ISN'T," said the Elevator Man, "a major item around these parts yet, but folks in some sections of the country are beginning to worry about the effects of television. A U.B.C. man told the B.C. Medical Association last week that we're going to breed a generation of 'televizonts' if we don't watch out. He figures that just looking at pictures all the time will discourage reading and the use of words. And since words are practically our only link with the rest of mankind—the only way we can give or receive messages—we'd eventually be reduced to a pretty low state. Besides that, of course, a youngster who keeps his vocabulary to a minimum isn't going to get much out of the great classics of the language. He's going to be in a mess, and he won't even have words to describe it. Going down!"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "it might be even worse than that. Some scientists say that we really think with words, that ideas have to be pegged down with a name before the mind can do much with them. There may be a lot in that, so before we know it we're not even going to be able to think. Then all we'll be good for will be to watch television—or appear on it. Lower main!"

"When it comes to naming things," said the Elevator Man, "I like that story of the college students who tried to trick their professor. He was a well-known naturalist, so the kids built up an insect out of a grasshopper's legs, a butterfly's wings, a beetle's head and a centipede's body. 'We caught it in a field,' they told the prof. 'He looked it over very carefully. 'Did you notice?' he asked, 'whether it hummed when you caught it?' 'Yes, sir,' the students answered, winking at each other. 'Well,' said the scientist, 'that decides it. This is a humbug.'"

Mile-Long Cable To Serve Quadra Island Power Needs

Construction will start soon on a new electrical distribution system to serve an estimated 174 customers on the south end of Quadra Island off the east coast of Vancouver Island opposite Campbell River.

The announcement was made over the week-end by Premier Byron Johnson.

Estimated cost of the project is $114,850.

Potential customers will be canvassed by a B.C. Power Commission representative and service contacts will be obtained before the work is actually undertaken.

The project involves the laying of more than a mile of submarine cable across Discovery Passage from Campbell River to Quadra Island.

Commission engineers estimate the job will take two or three months to complete after the cable and other materials are delivered.

Customers who will be served by this extension from the John Hart Development at Campbell River include residents of Quatitaski Cove, Heriot Bay, the Cape Mudge Indian settlement and the hotel and other buildings at April Point.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beastall

The gladiolus is grown with success by the majority of home gardeners, but winter storage of the corms often presents difficulties.

Possibly the most serious problem with which the amateur has to contend is rotting of the corms. In this locality, the first week in October is considered as digging time—just when we get the first of our heavy fall rains, so that the corms are caked with wet earth.

To prevent rot starting at a point between the old and new corms, it is imperative that drying be accomplished as speedily as possible, preferably within two or three days. This sometimes necessitates the use of wire-bottomed trays.

Jack, stacked in a warm room, and an electric fan to circulate the air and drive off the moisture. When this procedure is impracticable, some other method of quick drying must be devised.

Many authorities advise leaving the foliage attached to the corms, tying in bunches, and hanging them in an airy location for the drying period. While this may be a convenient way to handle small lots, it has decided disadvantages. In the first place, the corms will try to keep the foliage alive, an endeavor which results in a serious loss of vitality; secondly, as the foliage ripens, the gladiolus thrips, our

Young Baptist Group Raising Campsite Fund

The young people's group of the Baptist Association of Vancouver Island decided at a meeting Monday to undertake during the next year to raise $1,000 toward providing a site for an outdoor summer camp.

The young people were given support in their plan by the Baptist Association of Vancouver Island which pledged itself to give $2 for every one collected by the young people themselves.

The question of a camp site was one of a number of matters discussed by the association during afternoon and evening meetings held here at First Baptist Church.

About 250 attended the Representatives of all Baptist churches in the Island region, healthy progress made in their respective districts.

Rev. Wayman Roberts, minister of Vancouver's First Baptist Church, was principal speaker at the meeting. Rev. Gordon Forbes, director of Christian Education for the Baptist Convention of Washington, attended from Seattle.

Tunnel Device Offsets Carbon Monoxide

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Motorists using Pittsburgh's new Squirrel Hill tunnel on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway will be protected against carbon monoxide fumes by sensitive instruments that can detect one part of the deadly gas in a million parts of air.

The instruments, MSA carbon monoxide recorders, are a development of the Mine Safety Appliances Co., Pittsburgh. They will be installed to analyze air samples from the tunnel and continuously record percentages of carbon monoxide present.

When the instruments detect concentrations of carbon monoxide approaching a predetermined limit, ventilating equipment supplies more air for the tunnels.

NEW PROCEDURE, SITTING HOURS

To Relieve Pressure At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP).—The Commons, claiming for years for streamlined rules of procedure, likely will experiment at its fall session with possible changes in both rules and sitting hours.

Within a couple of weeks, the House is expected to establish a committee to review the rules and to recommend changes. Prime Minister St. Laurent promised at the last session that the government will agree to establish an all-party committee.

'INHUMAN' HOURS
Members were told at the last session by a well-known Ontario physician and surgeon that their working hours are "inhuman."

Dr. W. H. McMillan, Liberal member for the Ontario constituency of Welland, said in his first session in the Commons that the working schedule is "not compatible with any rules of health with which I am familiar."

Under long-standing rules, the Commons sits from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. But, said Dr. McMillan, if the members were to handle the correspondence from their constituents and serve on committees they must work from 9 or 10 a.m. until 11 p.m.

Some, notably Gordon Graydon (P.C.-Peel), have suggested that the House sit from 1 or 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Others have urged that the sittings be from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. to allow members to get home a half-hour earlier at night.

The committee's recommendation will have to be accepted by all members of the Commons before they can be put into effect.

In the past it has proven difficult to obtain unanimous agreement of members.

SHORTEN DEBATES
In the Senate, the pressure of work is not as great and the senators usually adapt their sitting hours to meet their own convenience.

Besides the question of sitting

AUTOIST HAD 'DOGGONE' LUCK

These two motorists had the "doggone" kind of bad luck Monday at Vancouver and Johnson Streets.

Harold B. Crowe, 239 Tolcross Street, stopped his car to allow an old dog to creep his way across the street, another car driven by David Johnston, 1971 Cromwell Street, ran into his rear.

Police typed the damage as medium to the Johnson car, slight to the Crowe vehicle.

There's really gold in "them thar hills"—the target-butts at Heals Rifle Range, West Saanich.

It doesn't come as bright yellow stuff, but the hundreds of thousands of lead bullets that have been fired into the butts over the last 35 years or more net a big purseful of dollars.

Edward Cameron Gordon, of West Vancouver, is in the process of doing that with muscles and machines.

PROVINCE-WIDE JOB

Gordon is working for Crown Assets Corporation on a province-wide tour reclaiming lead from rifle ranges.

He's finished the Nanaimo range, will go from here to Vernon, then Chilliwack and other places where there are government "shooting galleries."

He gets 10 per cent of the profits of the operations. The lead is melted into bars of about 53 pounds each. About 65 slugs are needed to make up one pound.

MACHINE WORK

A tractor is used to tear down the butts and the earth is sifted in machines to get the slugs.

"I think we'll get about 10 tons from here, worth in the neighborhood of $3,000," said Gordon, who has been on this job with several workmen since Sept. 8.

When the lead, which is worth 17 cents a pound, is retrieved, the butts are put back in their original shape.

If Gordon's calculations are correct he'll salvage around 1,300,000 slugs—and that adds up to a lot of gold.

Denies Hearing To 4,000 Japanese

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to approximately 4,000 persons of Japanese ancestry residing on the west coast who seek official declarations that they are United States citizens.

All of them were born in the U.S. While held in relocation centres during the Second World War they signed renunciations of American citizenship.

Their lawyers asserted these renunciations were signed because of coercion by government agents.

For the last two years Col. Delamere has been serving at headquarters of the Eastern Command at Halifax.

The battalion is stationed at Valcartier, Que., completing unit training with other elements of the brigade preparatory to a possible early assignment, if parliament approves, with the Atlantic Pact forces in Northwest Europe.

As Peterborough Proved Their Worth

ONE OF THOSE NIGHTS

Fans, Petes Roast Big Bill

By DENNY BOYD

An unfamiliar sound filled the Memorial Arena last night as Peterborough Petes edged Victoria Shamrocks 15-14. It was the sound of a Victoria crowd, a hostile crowd, booing a Victoria player. The player in question was Bill Andrews. There is little doubt that Andrews last night had one of the worst nights in his career. It is even possible that he had one of his good or even normal nights, the Rocks might have used the Canadian champions.

But Andrews was a sick man last night and team doctor Jack Patterson warned him against playing. There was no one to take his place so Andrews played, bad, cold and all.

As it was, Peterborough seemed lucky to escape with a win. The Rocks played the game with all they had, treating it with more importance than an exhibit tilt. Only some cagey stalling tactics in the final minute and a half kept the pressing Rocks from forcing the issue after they had come from behind a half-time deficit to out-score the Petes 7-4 in the second half.

PETES BELOW STRENGTH

The Petes were not at full strength, having sent seven of their regulars home early. The Rocks had all their regulars except Norm Coates and played Jimmy Ranson in his place. Harry Whipper opened the scoring at 2:12 by picking a corner behind Andrews but Larry Booth worked inside a packed defense 25 seconds later to equalize.

A long shot by flashy Denny Peterson, two hard bouncers by Russ Slater and a long dash by Merv McKenzie gave the easterners a 5-1 lead before the fans had settled down.

Unassisted markers by Booth and Norm Baker sliced the margin, but McKenzie and Curly Mason scored shortly before the end of the period to make it 7-3. It was Mason's goal, a soft shot,

WILT IN SECOND HALF

United Still In Lead Though Tied By City

Victoria United are all by themselves on top of the Coast Soccer League pack, leading by one point. A little more staying power on Saturday and they could be leading by a more substantial lead of two points.

United went into Saturday's encounter with Vancouver City carrying an unbeaten streak of two games. In the first half, they were miles ahead of City but in the second half, they wilted like a flower in a bonfire, and were forced to settle for a 4-4 tie.

Victoria United	W	L	T	P	A	P
Preflighters	2	2	0	12	7	3
North Shore	2	2	0	12	10	4
New Westminster	1	3	0	6	14	4
St. Andrew	0	2	1	7	11	1
Vancouver City	0	2	1	7	11	1

United's first goal came when right-winger Cedric Robb broke into the clear in front of City's goal only to be butted down by Sawyer. Jackie Robbins took the ensuing penalty kick and caught the left hand corner with his spot drive.

The youngest of the Robbins' clan made it 2-0 minutes later when he took the ball from a crowd of players and scored from well out.

Vancouver were awarded a penalty shot when John Pickburn was called for holding and Denny Rogers made it 2-1 with a well-placed drive.

Three minutes from half-time Pickburn was given a penalty for tripping a Vancouver player who seemed to run into Pickburn. City took the free kick and Ernie Durante scoring through a maze of players.

United went ahead again seconds before the half as Wallace Milligan caught the corner of the net with a fluide header, and Wally Henderson move up to lend a hand. Shamrocks nearly upset the dope but were held off in the dying minutes of the game as Petes protected their lead and prestige against a Rock team that attempted in vain to pull down the touted Mann Cup champions.

PETES KNEW MOON WAS HERO IN MANN CUP WIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—When it was all over, Peterborough Petes mobbed their goalie so happily he collapsed on the floor under their weight.

When officials announced Lloyd (Moon) Wooten had won the Mike Kelly memorial medal as the most valuable player in the best-of-seven Canadian lacrosse final, the husky net-minder was pummeled to the floor again.

In this way, Petes showed the 2,500 fans, who knew already, that the 24-year-old Wooten had carried the major load in their 13-7 victory over Vancouver Combines in Saturday night's deciding game of the boiling, bruising series.

ROBINSON TO BE CALLED

Boxing Probe Opens Before Grand Jury

NEW YORK (AP)—A country-wide investigation of professional boxing in the United States began Monday before a federal grand jury.

The jury, called together at the direction of U.S. Attorney General Howard McGrath, will seek to determine whether anti-trust laws have been violated and to inquire into possible monopolistic holds on boxing champions.

Although no specific organizations were mentioned, the jury was expected to dig into the activities of the sprawling International Boxing Club which promotes boxing in arenas in New York, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis.

The I.B.C. has a better than million dollar contract for the network telecasts and broadcasts and broadcasts of boxing bouts on Wednesday and Friday nights.

In Washington, Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morrison in charge of the anti-trust division, said the action is being taken "on the basis of numerous complaints and a preliminary investigation."

Three witnesses were heard Monday and several others, including middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, and his manager, George Gainsford, have been subpoenaed for today.

The three called were Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring Magazine; Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the State Athletic Commission, and John Grombach, co-manager of Laurent Dauthuille and former boxing commissioner of the Panama Canal zone.

Robinson will be asked whether he has signed an exclusive contract with the I.B.C. The I.B.C. and other major boxing outfits in the past, has made it a practice to sign champions to exclusives when possible.

Among those expected to be subpoenaed are former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

Combines Take Island Junior Soccer League

Victoria Combines of junior division of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association moved into first place on Sunday when they downed Duncan Junior Native Sons at Duncan.

Both teams played hard and both checked closely and the final 7-4 score was no indication of the brand of soccer.

T. Burley, K. Barnes and C. Massey each scored two goals for the victors.

At Lower Beacon Hill, Heaneys scored a one-sided 7-0 victory over Victoria College to take over undisputed possession of second place.

The college, although defeated, showed that they have what it takes to win, and after getting a few games under their belts should be right in there with the league leaders.

CYCLERS ON TOP

Harris Cycle Shop took over first place in the second division when they whipped Tzouhalem Altar Boys 9-0 at Duncan Sunday.

On Saturday, Victoria Combines' Pee Wees scored their first victory in the juvenile fourth division when they defeated St. Louis College 2-0 at Lower Beacon Hill.

College was a much-improved squad over the team which dropped a 6-0 game to Mic Mags last week.

DiMaggio's Revival Puts Yanks Back On Even Keel

Million-Dollar Classic Sets Player Pool Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe DiMaggio's revival aroused New York Yankee hopes today as lefty Ed Lopat (21-9) faced the Giants' Larry Jansen (23-11) in the fifth world series game at the Polo Grounds.

All square with two victories each after Allie Reynolds' 6-2 conquest of Sal Maglie yesterday, the clubs were ready for a rematch of Friday's duel between Jansen and Lopat which the Yankee curve expert won 3-1.

DiMaggio, swinging from a new stance after three hitless games, renewed the pride of the Yankees with his two-run homer and single off Maglie.

For the first time in weeks, the Yanks hit like the club that fought off Cleveland and Boston to win the American League pennant. And they did it against the Giants' best.

Public sympathy rained on the 36-year-old DiMaggio in the first three games of his 10th series. He didn't have a hit. Hadn't hit a ball hard in 11 trips.

JUST MISSED

You noted the difference the first time he faced Maglie. First a curve strike. Then three balls. A foul liner that missed being a homer by four feet. Another foul liner. And three more fouls before he looked too long at a curved third strike.

After the game and his 350-foot homer with Bobby Brown on base in the fifth, he said he "liked" that first foul liner best of all. It was the first indication that the jolter was back on the beam.

It is difficult to overestimate the emotional line DiMaggio can give the Yanks. With "the big fellow" slashing, slumping Yogi Berra started to hit the ball on the nose. Yogi hammered two liners at outfielders before he got his lone hit.

With solid backing of 12 hits, Reynolds was a different pitcher from the fellow who lost the opening game. He had a zinging fast ball and sharp curve that piled up eight strikeouts.

DARK HITS

Al Dark, who hit a three-run homer in the opener, slammed three successive doubles to left field. The first meant a run when Monte Irvin singled. But the others meant only men left on base.

Allie had a rocky ninth. A walk to Hank Thompson, Irvin's ninth hit of the series and Bobby Thompson's single produced a run.

YANKS NOW ESTABLISHED AS SERIES FAVORITES

RENO, Nev. (UP)—The Yankees are in the World Series driver's seat, according to the odds-makers of the Nevada Turf Club.

Going into yesterday's fourth game, the club was quoting the series as an even money bet. But after the Yankees won, the odds were revised to make the Yankees 12½ to 10 favorites to win the series.

In today's fifth game, the Yankees are favored at 17 to 10 if their Eddie Lopat pitches against Larry Jansen.

Fuelmen In Cage Lead

Scott & Peden took the lead in the intermediate A men's basketball race Saturday night when they scored a 39-27 win over Chinese Students, after spotting the Students a 7-2 lead.

Scoring honors were shared by Laurie Veitch and Ted Saunders, who scored 11 points each for the victors. From the way Veitch and Saunders were playing Saturday night, it looks as if they might come in pretty handy to the Scott & Peden squad later on.

In the second game of the evening, an intermediate B boys' contest, Mount View High School soundly beat the ears off an extremely slow St. Louis College squad. The final score was 36-18.

Schedule follows:

Oct. 10—St. Louis College Jr. vs. St. Louis College. Inter. A: Dickinson & Dunn vs. Scott & Peden. Senior B: Charlie Lewis vs. Victoria College.

Petes' Coach Doesn't Think Much Of Rocks

Don Crowe, muscular playing coach of the Canadian champion Peterborough lacrosse team, is not one to mince words.

Furthermore, Don Crowe does not think much of Victoria's Shamrocks.

Following last night's exhibition game at the arena, Crowe was asked whether he thought that Vancouver Combines deserved to win the Intergity League championship from Shamrocks.

Drying himself with an old sweater—somehow the entire team only had one towel between them—he grunted and said: "Shamrocks? They're not even in the same class as those Combines."

Crowe thought little more of western officiating than of the Shamrocks. He claimed that the inconsistency of the local referees "would not be tolerated for five minutes back home."

"One thing you can say," exclaimed Crowe loudly, "I'm sure glad to see this season over. We played 47 games this year and my feet are beginning to feel like a couple of sausages."

NEW YORK—Joe Giardella, 159lb, Philadelphia, knocked out Tony Amato, 157, Guttenberg, N.J. (seven).

BALTIMORE, Md.—Bobby Lee, 149lb, Baltimore, stopped Eddie Holtz, 148, Atlantic City (four).

gave the powerful Hamilton team its first shutout defeat in two seasons.

Glen Dobbs was the hero of the week-end in Regina. The rangy quarterback of Saskatchewan Roughriders passed and ran for four touchdowns in the Saturday game with Eskimos and scooted over for one major in the Monday game with Stampede.

In the Monday game after Roughriders had, early in the fourth quarter, stretched their lead to 28-0, Calgary came back with three converted touchdowns.

Scorers, besides Dobbs, of Riders' majors, were Jack Nix, Sully Glasser and Al Bodine. Paul Salata, Dave West and Bill Blackburn clicked for Calgary. On the week-end, Red Ettinger converted all eight Roughrider touchdowns.

Calgary Stampede got a boost from the clock on Saturday. With less than a minute to go, Winnipeg quarterback Jack Jacobs tried a field goal attempt from a difficult angle. But the ball—kicked from the 14-yard line—fell for a single point and gave the Stamps the 18-16 win.

Roughriders Overtake Eskimos

Thanksgiving holiday weekend brought startling changes to Canadian senior football. In both the Western Interprovincial and the Big Four Football Unions, second-place teams moved into the lead.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders went to the top of the Western Conference with twin 25-15 victories, both in Regina, over Edmonton Eskimos Saturday and Calgary Stampede Monday.

The latter victory, combined with Edmonton's 38-27 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Winnipeg, gave the Riders a two-point edge over Eskimos in the western standings.

Calgary kept their playoff hopes alive Saturday with a hard-fought 18-16 win over Blue Bombers at Winnipeg but the loss to the Roughriders wrote fins to their chances.

Two Ottawa Rough Riders' victories over Montreal Alouettes—a 25-13 win Saturday in Ottawa and a 12-9 win Monday in Montreal—put them into a first-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats for leadership in the Big Four.

The Tiger-Cats split a home-and-home series with Toronto Argonauts. Saturday in Toronto they steamrollered over Argos 22-6 but they saw the tables turned Monday in Hamilton by a 10-0 Argos comeback.

Truman-Barkley Likely 1952 Democratic Team

Vice-President Calls For Party Support In California Address

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Vice-President Alben W. Barkley implied Monday night that he and President Truman will be the Democratic standard-bearers in 1952 "to preserve democracy."

In an impassioned, hour-long speech to Democrats from 11 western states at a $100-a-plate campaign fund-raising dinner, Barkley urged party members to stand squarely on the "magnificent record of performance" of the Truman administration.

At the conclusion of the text of his prepared speech, he said, "No president and vice-president ever have worked more closely together than Harry S. Truman and I."

DEFENDS RECORD

"We will stand on our record next year. We ask the people for another lease of power to preserve democracy."

Some party members assumed that by "we," Barkley meant himself and the President, but others believe he referred only to the party. The vice-president did not enlarge on the reference.

Fathers Eight Children During School Days

TORONTO (UP)—Fred Bailey, who became the father of eight children before he finished going to school, will take over as a freshman high school teacher next fall.

Bailey, aged 39, graduated with a high school teachers' certificate from the Ontario College of Education this year, a few hours after the birth of his eighth child. To fulfill his life-long ambition, to be a collegiate teacher, he had to beat a depression, get through a war, spend four years at university and a final year at Teachers' College.

Bailey said: "It was some job—but excuse me while I change one of the kids and stop a small ruckus in the kitchen."

Radio Aids Got Aviator Off

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP).—An air force mechanic 1,350 miles away told a Canadian civilian pilot how to repair his plane and fly away from an emergency landing.

Tech. Sgt. Foy Gentry at Moody air force base here was working the 20-metre band on the station's radio when a voice interrupted.

The voice said it belonged to Jack Connors of Eagle River, Ont., and that he was down on the prairies 90 miles from home with engine trouble.

Gentry called Sgt. James D. Nichols to the transmitter in response to Connors' plea for information. Nichols told Connors precisely how to check his engine.

Connors finally radioed Saturday that he had located the trouble, made repairs and was taking off for Eagle River.

The air force sergeants wished him happy landings.

Do you own some Canada Savings Bonds, Mr. Lambert? Yes, I have some. I get them through the payroll plan at the Refineries. I've never refused them. In fact, I wish I could afford to buy a lot more of them.

How did you begin buying Bonds? Because they had the drive at the Refineries. There were the Victory bonds first, and then we continued on.

Have you cashed any of the Bonds? Yes, I had to cash in a couple on account of sickness. My wife and my mother were in the hospital at the same time. My mother died at the same time that my wife had the baby.

Do you plan to buy a Bond in the next issue? Oh, yes. As long as they're going. I usually buy two bonds every time they come out.

Have you any particular objective in buying Bonds? Not necessarily. I own my own home. I figure they're just as good as money in the bank anytime. You can cash them when you want to.

- Canada Savings Bonds — 6th Series — mature in 10 years
- and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 3 1/2% coupons.
- The first coupon covers 1 year and 9 months and is payable on August 1st, 1953; subsequent coupons come due August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If cashed before August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is equivalent to 3.21% per year. The limit for holdings in any one name is $5,000 in the 6th Series. The bonds are cashable at full face value, plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada.

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Bleak Skies, Warm Welcome Greet Couple

Elizabeth, Philip Start Tour In Historic Quebec

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The royal tour began officially today beneath the high cliffs of this historic capital of French Canada.

Down beside the St. Lawrence, under bleak, grey skies, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh formally began at 9.45 a.m. EST a month-long tour that will take them from one coast to the other.

For this tour beginning, there was military pomp in plenty. But only a handful of Quebec people came down the high cliffs to old Lower Town to see it. Only a few hundred Quebec people joined the official greeters, the Mounties, the soldiers—and 700 displaced persons who joined the welcome less than eight hours after docking here after an Atlantic crossing.

But nine other events lay ahead up in the city itself, a few miles away from the Anse Du Foulon dock where the Royal couple kept their formal rendezvous with Canada.

As the Royal train came out of the quiet countryside and slid to a stop beside a huge waterfront shed, the province and the city extended the greetings of the entire country.

The federal government's representatives stood aside today. The greetings came from Quebec's Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux, Quebec's Premier Duplessis, Mayor Lucien Borne of Quebec and others.

Veterans Minister Lapointe, a Quebec City representative in Parliament, acted as Ottawa's spokesman.

The ceremony of arrival was kept rigidly to schedule, bright with military color, alive with the music of eight R.C.A.F. trumpeters and the red-jacketed band of the 22nd Regiment.

The Royal train pulled up to the shed and Princess Elizabeth came down the platform steps wearing what female reporters called "a fitted, green, knee-length velvet coat with a close-fitting hat to match."

On her lapel was a large silver maple leaf. The Prince wore naval uniform with ribbons and medals and carried a sword.

In the background, a ship's whistle blew steadily and artillerymen fired a 21-gun Royal salute. The Princess walked through the shed, along a red carpet and out into the raw October air to inspect a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal 22nd Regiment. Beside her was the Lieutenant-Governor.

Princess Appears Relaxed

As the Princess approached the guard, she chatted with Capt. Guy Gauvreau, its commander. Occasionally she smiled. She seemed relaxed, like a young girl delighted at the prospect of the fairy-book happenings that lie ahead of her.

In the background, the band played. Photographers snapped shot after shot. The Prince walked along behind his wife, occasionally rubbing his chin.

The inspection took only a few minutes. The whole dockside ceremony took less than 20. Then a cavalcade of sleek, black cars moved to drive up into the city.

Mounties, sailors and soldiers lined the route as they left. The crowd of civilians, small but vigorous, surged forward against the military lines.

A round of cheers went up as the Royal couple drove past in an open car. The Princess was smiling. The Prince waved. From time to time he leaned over to speak to her as they left lower town.

Meanwhile, under skies that remained grey, crowds started to assemble along a three-mile route laid out for the Princess and the Duke.

Troops led by bands marched to points where they took up guard duty along the route. Immediately after greeting the Royal couple at the dockside, Premier Duplessis hustled away to be on hand at the Legislature Buildings to meet the couple there and present members of his cabinet.

Lieutenant-Governor Fauteux remained with the motor parade that carried the Royal visitors up from Wolfe's Cove, across the Plains of Abraham and along Grande Allée toward the city gates.

While the crowd at the Wolfe's Cove arrival point—two miles from the heart of the city—was thin, people crammed places such as the autumn-colored Legislature grounds when the Royal couple arrived for their welcome there.

Under golden maple trees the Royal couple and their police escort drove before the Legislature through a guard of some 200 nurses in uniform.

They entered the 80-year-old Legislature Buildings passing under a deep blue awning decorated with silver fleurs-de-lis and were met by Premier Duplessis. A crowd of about 4,000 packed around the Legislature entrance to glimpse the Royal couple.

The Premier, in morning clothes, escorted the Princess

TOUR SIDELIGHTS

Delighted villagers at St. Hyacinthe, Que., learned Monday night the Duke of Edinburgh speaks flawless French. The Royal train stopped briefly and the Prince told a group waiting on the platform he was "delighted to have a chance to speak French again."

"He speaks perfectly, with a very fine accent, too," the residents told tour officials.

As the Royal motorcade moved from Dorval airport to the special train Monday, the Prince spotted a newspaper photographer balanced shakily atop a ladder trying to get a picture of the cars. Philip nudged Elizabeth and pointed laughingly at the photographer. The Princess looked up and waved.

He was so surprised he forgot to take the picture.

When the personnel of the Royal train were presented to the Royal couple, the Princess said to Col. J. N. B. Crawford, medical officer, "Oh, are you coming with us?"

"Yes, and I hope I will be the most unemployed man on the train," he replied.

The other premiers who welcomed King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their state visit in 1939 are no longer in office.

Journey's End Is A Beginning

End of flight from Great Britain to Canada was only the beginning of thousands of miles of travel for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Both were eager, smiling and gracious as they met welcoming Canadians, including the Prime Minister. Here they leave their strato-liner. (AP wirephoto.)

SCOUT AND CUB ACTIVITIES

Lions' Own Visit Salt Spring Island

By FREEMAN KING
Scout Commissioner

The Victoria Lions' Own Rover Crew journeyed to Salt Spring Island for the holiday week-end to take part in a scout sing-song and do at Scouter Alvin Water's place.

The orientating run by the Rovers last week-end was carried out in good style. The Fairfield crew members were the winners with the winning team making the run in 1.48 minutes. Good work, fellows. The winners were Ron Mooney and Trevor Jeans; Ted Howard and Don Mooney were second. We wonder where some of the teams got to. Perhaps it was the compass.

Thanks are due to the scouts who just had to sit and wait for the teams to come by their station.

All groups in the Greater Victoria District are reminded that it is registration time again and this year cubs are asked to register so that they can secure their cards.

DESCRIBED JAMBOREE

At the Akela council held Thursday evening Senior Scout Sid Bell, the scout from Victoria who went to the Jamboree in Austria, told of his adventures while attending with the Canadian contingent. He was very interesting and it seems as if Sid wants to go back to Austria.

This week is fire prevention week and all scouts can and should take part in this. It is a part of the way for your fireman's badge. We have special forms for this at D.H.Q. so if you want some just ask your scouters.

Congratulations to Oak Bay group for the wonderful paper drive. We hear it was a real success.

The Gorge Vale Troop was out camping over the week-end at Camp Barnard. That is real scouting.

A number of scouts are going out to Sooke for the wedding of Scoutmaster Dave Anderson and Cub leader Jessie Carlrow, leaving headquarters at 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 13. If any more want to go along ask D.H.Q.

Thursday, Oct. 11, there will be a special meeting of all scout masters and assistant scout masters in D.H.Q. at 8 p.m.

Congratulations to the Esquimalt Troop on their demonstration of emergency first aid—carried out out-of-doors in the dark. That is real scouting, fellows. The Esquimalt scout groups

Skinner Street, in Victoria West, is named for Thomas James Skinner, who sailed around the Horn of Africa in the ship the Porpoise, in 1833. He came out from England with his family to start Constable Cove Farm for the Hudson's Bay Company. It was located where H.M.C.S. Naden is today.

In 1856 Skinner was elected to the first Legislative Assembly of Vancouver Island.

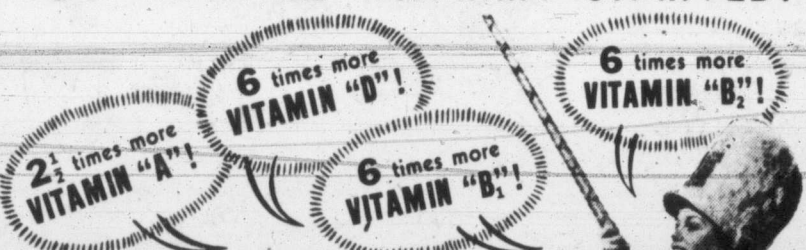

By 1861 he had his own farm in Esquimalt and was awarded a contract to supply beef to the Navy. But he wanted more land, and his eye fell on acreage in Cowichan—a remote settlement. In 1864 the Skinner family traveled to Cowichan on the gunboat Grappier, and there built Parleigh Farm.

Thomas Skinner died at Cowichan in 1899, and Mrs. Skinner in 1894. One of their daughters, Constance, was the wife of the Hon. A. E. B. Davis, one-time Attorney General and Premier of B.C.

City Chinese Death Said Accidental

After hearing the story of the motorist involved, a coroner's jury today returned a verdict of accidental death in Victoria's latest fatal traffic accident.

Victim was a 78-year-old Chinese, Wong Lowe Mon, 736 Johnson Street, who was hit by a car at Fisgard and Douglas Street on Sept. 29.

Coroner E. C. Hart said he could not accept a rider suggested by the jury that the driver of the car, Herbert A. Heatherington, Campbell River, should have remained at the scene.

Clarence O. Faa, 588 Sumas Street, said he was stopped for the red light on the northerly side of Douglas when a car, later identified as that driven by the Campbell River veteran, drove through hitting Wong.

Evidence of Heatherington, given freely on the advice of counsel, was that he was a stranger to Victoria, only having visited the city three times in the four years he had been on the island.

The lights are hard for a stranger in the city to see. I was proceeding south on Douglas at what I considered an average speed (25 to 30 m.p.h.) and I never saw a red light or a green one," Heatherington told the jury.

AT REUNION
Heatherington said he had been attending the Canadian Scottish reunion to meet old 16th "buddies" of First World War. He said he had not had much to drink.

He never saw the Chinese until hitting him. Evidence was that the Chinese had suddenly appeared in front of the halted Faa car.

Jack L. Mather, Ladysmith, wheel-chair invalid from the old 16th battalion, in the front seat of the Heatherington car, also said he had not noticed any lights "so I could not say whether they were for or against our car."

Mather said Heatherington stopped and went back to the scene. Heatherington said he went back, saw others at the scene "looking after things," returned to the car and took his four passengers to the Dominion Hotel.

HAD PRESSING BUSINESS
He said he then got his wife and drove to Campbell River as he had pressing business on hand. When interviewed in his home town, Heatherington said he told police the whole story.

Car was traced through a license number taken by a witness.

Offers Court New Evidence In Douk Death

An application will be made by defence counsel A. G. Cameron in Appeal Court here Wednesday for permission to introduce fresh evidence in the case of John Michael Davidoff, a Doukhobor, convicted of murdering his son, Joseph, at Brilliant on April 15 of this year.

The court granted Cameron permission to make the application at the opening of the murder appeal today.

Crown counsel T. G. Norris opposed the application, on the grounds it was not in the interest of justice. "I know it's a murder appeal," said the lawyer. "But there is no merit in the application and I do not think fresh evidence will effect the case."

CROWN'S CLAIM
Davidoff was found guilty by a Nelson Assize Court on July 7 of shooting his son with a .303 Savage rifle. The Crown claimed the motive for the murder was the desire of the accused to obtain benefits from an insurance policy made out by his son to himself.

Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker sentenced the accused to be hanged on Dec. 11. Cameron in opening his case for appeal told the court that he was seeking an acquittal or a new trial for Davidoff on the grounds that the jury was not justified in arriving at a verdict of murder.

He took the hefty batter on a blue and white bucktail fly. Second prize went to Dean Vampe of Duncan who weighed in a fish that tipped the scales at 15 pounds 10 1/2 ounces. Cowichan Bay's Tom Merrick took third place with his 15-pound-10-ounce.

Winner of the $100 prize for the top fish on Sunday was G. B. Williams of Victoria with a 14-pound-11 1/2-ounce fish while Jack Strouger of Duncan took Saturday's award, boasting a 15-pound-6-ounce.

Fishing was reported to be spotty over the three days but picked up slightly Monday. About 200 boats went over the elusive coho over the holiday weekend.

Robert W. Allison, 3165 Millgrove Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving due to alcohol and was fined $200. His license was suspended for one year.

Victoria Man Wins Cowichan Salmon Derby
A husky 16-pound 14-ounce coho gave A. A. McNab of Victoria a radio-phonograph combination, $100 and the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club trophy Monday in the club's annual coho derby at Cowichan Bay.

McNab's fish was the largest caught in the three-day fishfest, giving him the radio-phonograph and trophy, and was the largest caught Thanksgiving Day, giving him the $100 daily prize.

He took the hefty batter on a blue and white bucktail fly. Second prize went to Dean Vampe of Duncan who weighed in a fish that tipped the scales at 15 pounds 10 1/2 ounces. Cowichan Bay's Tom Merrick took third place with his 15-pound-10-ounce.

Sailors Ready New Reserve Quarters

A crew of busy hands was at work today making Moresby House ship-shape for its formal commissioning as headquarters for H.M.C.S. Malahat, Victoria's reserve naval training division. The new quarters will be opened tonight at 8. Sailors at work are AB. Harold Lenz, OS. Archie Dachuk, AB. Arthur Cain and OS. Elmer Lorentz. (Times photo.)

The Pacific Coast flag officer, who returned here over the weekend, said in an interview today the role of the navy was important as ever and Canadian ships were doing well at war.

Canada's Ships Do Well In Action, Admiral Says

Rear-Admiral Wallace B. Creery saw Canadian ships in Korea action. He says they did well.

The Pacific Coast flag officer, who returned here over the weekend, said in an interview today the role of the navy was important as ever and Canadian ships were doing well at war.

Reporting on a 17-day flying trip to the three Canadian vessels serving under United Nations' command in the Korean theatre, Admiral Creery said the ships were providing escort for operational carriers, carrying out blockade patrols, and making periodic bombardments of shore installations. He said the men paid little attention to reports of peace in the offing, and were not building up any hopes of getting home early.

SILOUS HOME NEXT
The admiral said the destroyer Sioux, having been longer in the theatre of war than either the Cayuga or Athabaskan, would be the first to be relieved.

He suggested her return to Esquimalt would be some time in the early spring of next year. During his time overseas, the admiral visited all three Canadian ships, spoke to their crews, conferred with U.S. Admiral Charles Turner Joy, commander-in-chief of all U.N. naval forces, and with other high ranking military figures, and witnessed several naval actions.

The admiral sailed aboard the Sioux when she went to screen the U.S. aircraft carrier Rendova on an aerial attack off Inchon, and was aboard the Cayuga when that ship carried out shore bombardment of enemy installations near Chin-nam-po.

The latter mission produced very satisfactory results, the admiral said. Allied aircraft reported hits upon Red war-houses, gun emplacements and a company of enemy infantry.

The admiral said there was no return fire except from machine-guns on what was believed to be a friendly island. He said the machine-gun fire was answered but not explained.

Only real danger to any of the ships operating in Korean waters is from mines, he said. North Koreans are fond of loading up junks with mines and taking them out to sea to scatter.

The admiral spoke highly of the job being done by allied aircraft carriers. The admiral made his trip to the east by R.C.A.F. plane. Overseas, he traveled in all sorts of aircraft. He recalled being taken off Sioux by a U.S. navy helicopter, which hovered over the deck and lowered a line with a loop to put under his shoulders.

HOW ABOUT 'CLANBAKE'
Visiting Scots Puzzle On New York 'Clambake'

The thickest of Scottish brogues sounded today above the clatter of painters redecorating the lobby of the Empress Hotel for the Royal Visit.

The voices, with the Old Country "burr" belonged to comic Alec Finlay and singer Robert Wilson, from Eaglesham and Glasgow, respectively.

Wilson, famed tenor, was trying to explain the title of his latest recording to a Canadian acquaintance. "It's titled 'Wachlin' Hame to Auchtermuchty' he declared, then repeated it twice for the puzzled Canuck, who had never been closer to Scotland than Vancouver.

Finlay, who had been busy popping cold tablets into his mouth, took time out to explain. "Aye," he said, "you know where Auchtermuchty is, don't you man? It's in Perthshire."

SELDOM SEE 'HAME'
Later in their second-floor suite, Wilson and Finlay plumped themselves down in soft chairs, sipped their coffee and told of some of the rigors of being away from home 50 out of 52 weeks in a year.

Finlay complained: "Our bairns hardly know us." REPEAT PERFORMANCE
Wilson and Finlay will present their International Scottish Artists' show tonight at the Royal Theatre before a packed house.

They will give a repeat show Thursday night and then will appear in Seattle and at a TV show in New York on a program called "Scottish Clambake."

Wilson found himself completely bewildered by the word "clambake." "What in the world does 'clambake' mean?" he queried. "He was told it was a 'get-together'."

"Strange word, that," mused the man who had let the words "wachlin' and 'Auchtermuchty' roll off his tongue with so much relish.

Discover More Leaks In Arena Ice Plant

First test of the repaired coils in Memorial Arena's ice-making equipment revealed four or five additional small leaks, J. Carl Pendray, arena commission chairman, said today.

The brine tank was filled with water and 125 pounds air pressure put through the pipes. As soon as the leaks were revealed, the tank was emptied and welders went to work repairing the holes, preparatory to continuing the test.

STILL HOPING
"We are doing everything we can, with the men working night and day," said Mr. Pendray. "We hope to be ready for the Oct. 12 hockey game but we are unable to say yet."

Meanwhile the fence around the ice area is being painted white for hockey. During the lacrosse season the fence is green. The floor is being marked for hockey, and goals set up.

Tradesmen Report Back To Work

All tradesmen, except striking boilermakers, were at their jobs in Victoria's two main shipyards today. But lay-offs may be forced on the yards tomorrow. The men, most of whom had been away since the boiler-makers struck 14 days ago, had to go through picket lines to report this morning. But this apparently did not bother them. There was no trouble.

Settlement of the strike itself appears as far away as ever. At week-end meetings, boiler-makers decided to continue to press their original demand for a 50-cent-an-hour wage increase and to accept an offer of help extended them by A.F.L.-affiliate boiler-makers in other North American shipyards.

One shipyard official expressed pleasure to have so many men back at work but, at the same time, pointed out that certain trade groups could only do so much before they would be caught up. Then, he said, they would have to wait for the boiler-makers to return.

He feared layoffs would have to start tomorrow.

Nearly 300 Attend A.A. Open Meeting
Public interest in the work of Alcoholics Anonymous drew nearly 300 people to a meeting Sunday afternoon.

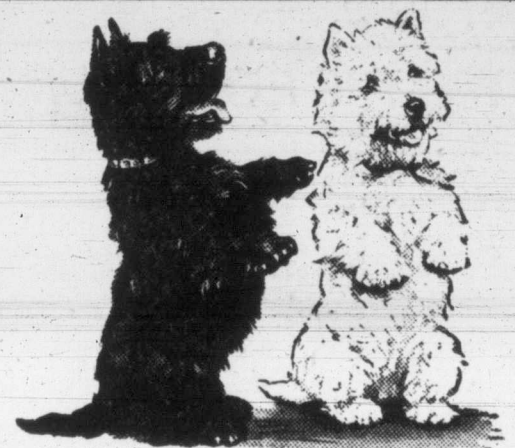

Dr. D. E. Alcorn, Victoria neuro-psychiatrist, was guest speaker at the meeting in the Sirocco, which was described as "a huge success." Dr. J. L. Gayton, city medical health officer, was chairman.

The meeting was held in conjunction with a convention of A.A. attended by delegates from all parts of B.C., Washington and Oregon.

Harold Gordon Armstrong, Vancouver, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving due to alcohol and was fined $200. Through representations made by counsel Donald Anderson, Magistrate H. C. Hall only suspended Armstrong's license for three months. He will be allowed to drive for the following nine months for business purposes only.

Fines of $35 for careless driving were imposed against Arthur O. King, 2046 Kings Road; Michael John Coleman, 278 Superior Street, and Paul Chan, 830 Caledonia Avenue.

Tossed In Some German 'Cause Of Their China

By PENNY SAVER

"Sprechen Sie Deutsch?"
"Ja wohl! Aber nicht sehr gut."
Don't ask me. I don't know what it means.
Just thought I'd use it in connection with some imported German china I discovered recently.

They call it Rembrandt ware, and all the warmth of his paintings has been captured on the china.

A large plate is $6.50, the next size is $2.50, cup and saucer $2.50, ash trays 79 cents, and a jug, entirely different in shape, is $2.95.

Looking for all the world like Wedgwood is a Royal Stafford teapot in Old England and oak design with ivy. It's a very good size, and the lid is topped with a gold acorn. Large size is $7.25 and one slightly smaller is $6.25.

Matching cake plates are $2.75, cups and saucer $1.95, 5-inch plates $1.25, and cream and sugar $2.50.

A rather unusual and different sandwich set was next to catch my eye. The tray itself was diamond-shaped and the individual plates, eight of them, were triangular. Each was decorated with a painting done by Constable, a famous English artist. The complete set is $6.25, and an eight-inch cake dish is $1.25.

Would probably tuck a little Bavarian in here, but I don't know the first thing about that language. You see I found some Bavarian imported china, too.

The piece that appealed to me most was a Puritan cup. It was just as the name implies. Very plain. It was delicately touched with gold and was otherwise pure white. This was priced at $4.25.

Hutschenreuther! Yup! That's what the man said.

It evidently is the name of another type of imported Bavarian ware. The pieces I saw were very attractive plates for serving, centred with fruit and its foliage. Each plate was $2.25.

Any one of the things I have mentioned might very well serve your purposes when you are shopping for gifts.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

No One Food Is Fattening—It's Sum Total That Counts

How often have you heard women say, "I am dieting. I just have to lose some weight. I haven't eaten bread or potatoes for a week now," or some such thing?

The general prevailing idea seems to be that once you leave off all bread and potatoes you are well on your way toward a Joan Crawford figure. It is a commentary on this attitude that so many of those who shun bread and potatoes find the scales standing still or moving in the wrong direction.

I think this idea grew because on a reducing diet one does cut starches and sugars to a low level. However, potatoes (baked) give you only a few calories (unless you load the butter on) and bread (white enriched bread or real whole wheat) gives you food values you need.

I think also that bread and potatoes have acquired a bad name among reducers because they are so tempting as a foil for a big build-up in preparation. Think of potatoes au gratin—or stuffed—or fried—or with loads of butter. Think of bread with a slab of sweet butter and some delectable jelly. Think of cinnamon toast! No—don't!

An average-sized baked potato gives you about 90 calories while a slice of bread can be figured around 75 or 80 calories, depending on the size of the loaf and the thickness of the slice. Carefully and scientifically planned reducing diets usually include bread and baked potatoes.

While you cut out bread and potatoes what else are you doing? Are you eating fried foods, rich salad dressings, little pick-ups of nuts and cream and gravy and just a bit of that pie or maybe a chocolate nut sundae? You can eat adequately and still lose weight. Forget the fallacy that any one food is fattening. It is the sum total in calorie count which is important. Your body requires certain ingredients for fine health. Do not allow your efforts at reducing to be dictated by ignorance and long-held and unscientific ideas which women pass along to you.

I usually offer my 9-Day Reducing Diet Booklet only once a year, but today I offer it to you again, since fall is putting the pressure on many girdles, if not women. You will find some bread and potatoes on this and you will lose from five to ten pounds in nine days. This booklet may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents along with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Heirloom Brooch Worn By Maxine Mussick

A gold heirloom brooch with ruby stones was the only jewelry worn by Maxine Shirley Mussick for her recent marriage to Edward Carson (Ted) Owens.

Rev. R. Ashford performed the ceremony in Centennial United Church for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mussick, 2829 Inez Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Owens, Painter Road, Colwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a Swiss lace yolk extending to the waistline, lily point sleeves, and lace-trimmed peplum effect, slightly en train. Her fingertip illusion net veil fell from a satin Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink delight roses and stephanotis.

Miss Beverley Bradley, maid of honor, and a cousin of the bride, Miss Glenda Shepherd, bridesmaid, wore respectively yellow and green gowns of net over tulle with taffeta fitted jackets. Both wore headresses matching their bouquets. Miss Bradley's being mauve chrysanthemums and Miss Shepherd's yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Owens attended his brother and Messrs. John Wellburn and Len Parker ushered.

At a reception at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel the three-tiered wedding cake was bedded in pink tulle and rosebuds, flanked with white candles.

CAF-74

Mrs. E. Stoutley, a Canadian, was company sergeant-major in the Auxiliary Territorial Service during the war. At right, a close-up of part of the group picture that holds a place of honor on her mantle, with Princess Elizabeth, top, and herself. Both are in uniforms worn by members of the service.

Victoria Woman Once Gave Princess Elizabeth Orders; Checked Her Work

"I really didn't think Her Royal Highness would remember me," Mrs. E. Stoutley, 2172 Lafayette Street, says, "it seems so long ago now since we were together in the A.T.S. at Camberley in England."

"But when I heard she was coming to Victoria I decided to write to her and just the other day I received a letter in reply."

The letter reads: "Dear Mrs.

Stoutley, Princess Elizabeth has asked me to thank you for your kind letter of good wishes and bids me tell you that she will remember you at Camberley."

"Her Royal Highness very much hopes that there will be an opportunity of seeing you in Victoria, and desires me to send you all good wishes. Henriette Palmer, Lady in Waiting."

Princess Elizabeth was a member of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, motor transport division, during the war. And Mrs. Stoutley, then Ensign Pether, was her squadron leader and superior officer.

It was she who gave the Princess her orders for the day and checked and supervised her work in the ordinary course of duty.

"Her Royal Highness was treated exactly as were the other girls in her company," Mrs. Stoutley remembers.

"There were no favors asked, or given. That was the way the Royal family wanted it. And the Princess seemed to enjoy the routine of life with us."

Only concession to the fact that a royal princess was in the squadron, was that Mrs. Stoutley, as company sergeant-major, accompanied her wherever she went.

"The Princess was quiet," Mrs. Stoutley says, "and it would be up to me to keep the conversation going. But she was very friendly and liked to do everything we were doing."

"Just like all the other girls, the Princess wore dungarees when she was working on the transports," Mrs. Stoutley continued. "And she often sat down in the sergeant's mess for a cup of tea with us, still wearing her dungarees."

Mrs. Stoutley is keenly interested in seeing Princess Elizabeth again.

"With her crowded schedule I hardly hope to meet her," she says, "but it is rather nice to know she does remember me!"

Mrs. L. McKay and Mrs. L. Farmer were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter, in honor of Miss Jacqueline Ash, a bride-elect of this month. Miss Ash was presented with a corsage of carnations and her mother, a heart-shaped container. Master Johnny Farmer presented gifts to Miss Ash. Invited guests were Mesdames M. Ash, V. Scott, V. Sparks, B. Dalman, B. Cruickshank, B. Haynes, M. McKay, L. McKay, G. Gort, M. Ashton, C. Brown, P. Ireland, J. Healy, K. Orchin, O. Dyson, P. Gallant, V. Scott, J. Ash, J. McBratney, V. Price and M. Victoria Bride To Make Her Home In The States

Olympia, Wash., will be the new home of Agnes Eleanor Williamson, who became the bride of Angus James Geyer in Church of Our Lord, Saturday evening.

Rev. T. H. Laundry officiated for the daughter of Mrs. Robert Williamson, Cook Street, and the late Mr. Williamson, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Geyer, Aberdeen, Wash.

White chrysanthemums decorated the church for the candle-light ceremony. John Dunbar sang "Ave Maria," during the signing of the register and Ingram Smith played traditional wedding music as the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of Clarke W. McCarthy.

Rich velvet fashioned the fitted bodice highlighted by a rolled collar. A wide draped belt accented the accordeon-pleated skirt of illusion silk net over a crinoline.

A veil of silk illusion net misted over the bride's shoulders from a coronet of velvet and she carried a bouquet of gardenias surrounded by lacquered ivy leaves.

Mrs. John C. Bigelow, Aberdeen, Wash., matron of honor, was gowned in coral figured nylon net fashioned in ballerina length.

The groom chose John C. Bigelow as best man and ushers were Arthur W. Hadfield, brother-in-law of the bride, and Harvey LaBranche, Portland.

Green and white were the predominate colors used in decorating "Rappahannock," Rockland Avenue, for the reception. A two-tier cake centred the table. White candles were embedded in ivy leaves and the table was placed against a flower-banked picture window. John A. DiCastri proposed the toast.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon up island the bride donned a purple velvet dress with matching hat topped by a black velvet coat. Black accessories and a gardenia corsage completed the ensemble.

Pat Ludlow Married Amidst Setting Of Autumn Foliage

Baskets of pastel gladioli and chrysanthemums created an autumn floral setting for the marriage of Sylvia Patricia Ludlow and Rodney W. Hunt, Saturday evening in First United Church.

Rev. M. A. J. Waters officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ludlow, Cedar Hill Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hunt, Cedar Hill Road.

Mrs. R. Wood was at the organ and Miss Carol Richards sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride was gowned in white Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned small pointed collar,illy pointed sleeves and full skirt sweeping into a train. A coronet embroidered with seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion and she wore the groom's gift of pearls. A bouquet of deep red roses completed her costume.

The four attendants provided a rainbow of color. Miss Donna Ludlow, maid of honor for her sister, wore pink, fashioned with brocade bodice, and skirt of net over taffeta, having a short jacket. Bridesmaid Miss Norma Plumb chose yellow. Miss Joan Davies was in mauve and Miss Verna Jackson in turquoise, their taffeta frocks fashioned similar to the maid's of honor, with bolero jackets. All wore coronets of braided net and net mitts and carried Colonial bouquets of pastel chrysanthemums and gladioli to blend.

The best man was Mr. Gordon English and ushers were Mr. George Ludlow, brother of the bride, Mr. Frank Jarvis and Mr. Grant Craig.

The reception was held at the Ludlow home where the parents of the couple welcomed guests with them.

Going away, the bride wore a Chinese-red Barthea suit with navy blue hat and accessories, grey flannel topcoat, and a gardenia corsage.

Following their honeymoon motoring through the Okanagan Valley the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Willows—An evening of music has been arranged by the teaching staff of Willows School for the P.T.A. meeting, Tuesday at 8 in the school auditorium. Vocal selections will be given by Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns and Jackie Ross and violin solos by Miss Jean McGinnis. Accompanists will be Mrs. J. Gough, Misses Dorothy Francis and J. Applegate. Over 100 mothers of new pupils were entertained recently with a tea convened by Mrs. E. Costain, assisted by girls of grades 7 and 8. Principal R. T. Kipling welcomed guests.

Vancouver Man Suicide;
Tried To Kill Wife

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who failed in an attempt to shoot his wife killed himself Monday night, police said. The limp form of Robert Gordon Lewis, 38, was found in a rented car on the outskirts of the city. He died in an ambulance en route to hospital.

Police said Lewis drove up to an east-end house in the rented car and called his wife outside. There was a loud argument. Suddenly, Lewis swung a rifle out of the car window as his wife ran for the house and fired. One bullet went through the door, the other through the door jam.

Eight persons, including Lewis' three children, were in the little frame dwelling when the bullets ripped into the living room. One slug went into the wall, another into an empty chair.

Police advanced no motive for the shooting and suicide.

Traffic Victim

VANCOUVER (CP).—Judy Daignault, 4, died in hospital Monday night three hours after she was struck by a car on a Vancouver street. She was Vancouver's 19th traffic fatality this year.

Police said the girl ran from in front of a parked car into the path of an oncoming vehicle.

Retail Dairy Quits

VANCOUVER (CP)—Shannon Dairies Ltd. Monday gave up its retail business.

Walter Palitti, company manager, said a retail price ceiling of 19 cents a quart made it impossible to carry on business profitably.

He said the business had been operating on a $4,000 per month loss, which had been charged against the firm's wholesale activities. The wholesale business will continue, he added.

Mr. Palitti said 35 men were thrown out of work because of the action. The company served 5,000 customers in Vancouver and New Westminster.

Hunting Mishap

KAMLOOPS (CP)—James Patrick Langston, of Haney, was brought to hospital here Monday after being wounded accidentally in the foot while hunting.

Langston and his son, middle-weight boxer Jimmy Langston, were hunting near Kamloops.

Tot Drowned

COURTENAY (CP)—Douglas Wright, two and one-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, of Courtenay, tumbled into the Puntledge River near his home Sunday and was drowned. The body was recovered four hours later.

Clergy Summoned

CHILLIWACK (CP).—Five clergymen have been summoned to appear in court here Oct. 19 for failing to pay this city's $20 poll tax.

The tax is imposed on all citizens over 21 who are not registered property owners within the city.

Summoned are: Rev. Gordon McKinnon of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Rev. Christopher Vermeulen, his assistant, Rev. Geoffrey Glover of Chilliwack United Church, Rev. J. C. Clarke of St. Thomas Anglican Church, and Capt. J. R. Sloan of the Salvation Army.

New Constitution

PENTICTON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs

now will function under its own provincial constitution. The decision was made at a Sunday session at the biennial provincial conference of the B. and P. Clubs here.

Affecting the 23 B. and P. Clubs of B.C., the national constitution had been the governing power of their 789 membership before acceptance of the new constitution.

C.C.F. Demands Election On Price Control Issue

Say Canadian People Should Choose Weapon Used Against Inflation

OTTAWA (BUP)—The C.C.F. national council demanded today that the government call a federal election on the price control issue.

As Parliament met to prorogue the old spring session and open a new one, the national council of the nation's third largest political party came out with a demand that the people be allowed to decide at the polls whether they want price control as a weapon against inflation.

The national council said that "as the government has refused to apply the price controls which have been repeatedly demanded by a majority of Canadian people, an election should now be called and the Canadian people be given the opportunity to choose a new government."

The C.C.F. charged that "in spite of repeated assurances that the cost of living would level off, it has outrun wages and incomes by such an extent that most wives and mothers have been forced to seriously reduce family expenditures in order to provide for the bare essentials."

REDUCED SAVINGS

The government's credit restriction policy had proved ineffectual against inflation, the C.C.F. said, and added that federal thrift and savings campaigns as anti-inflation hedges were "a shabby trick at the expense of the people whose savings are being steadily reduced in value by the inflationary process."

"If the government were genuinely concerned about savings, it would take measures to control mounting profits and to apply excess profit taxes instead of pinching the pennies of the poor," the national council bluntly said.

It added that Finance Minister D. C. Abbott's recent appeal to Canadian women to undertake a thrift and savings campaign as a "cure for inflation is renewed proof of the government's callous disregard for the condition of the ordinary family."

The national council warned, following a week-end meeting here, that the cost of rearmament had become a major threat to the economies of the European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Cretoria Is Good Villain

John Cretoria, finely waxed mustache standing as straight as a poker, stepped into the ring Saturday night puffed up like a pigeon with pride. The wrestling fans (a good-sized crowd for an opening night), at the Armories, looked him over, and decided among themselves that here was a boy who would provide lots of excitement.

The fans were right. Our boy with the handle-bar mustache did provide lots of excitement. Naturally, he played the role of villain in the pantomime, and he played it well before winning. Right from the opening bell, he was being hissed and booed by the patrons. For some unknown reason, they seemed to sense that he was going to defeat his opponent, Johnny Valentine, and the fans thought that it was very unjust.

Valentine fell afoul of practically every dirty trick in wrestling, and being the clean-cut, all-American type, could do nothing about it.

And every time that Valentine did get an honest-to-goodness practical hold on Cretoria, then the mustache kid would make a grab for ropes.

So, if Saturday night's main event didn't do anything else, it proved one good point to all the kids watching the bout with eyes popping. It just doesn't pay to be a clean-cut, all-American type wrestler.

Crusaders Win Tin Miners Don't Get Pimples

Crusaders 1, of the Victoria Rugby Union, won the seven-a-side tournament at Macdonald Park Saturday, when they defeated three different teams in three rounds without having a single point scored against them in any of the three games.

In the first round, they downed J.B.A.A., 14-0, and then defeated Victoria College 21-0 in the second round. In the final round, the Crusaders defeated J.B.A.A. 16-0.

Because Cornish tin miners appeared to avoid skin blemishes, British chemists suggested the use of tin in treating Bolls, Acne, Pimples.

Now convenient, tasteless tablets containing 42.5% metallic tin are available under the brand name "Tinoid." Rapid, satisfactory results are claimed for this inexpensive treatment.

Tinoid Tablets are sold without prescription at all drug stores, 75c.

New Swiss Discovery F"99"

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

Discoverer of F"99"

THE DISCOVERY of one of the main causes of skin diseases will bring new health and happiness to thousands of people suffering from Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. Science has established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease. As this precious substance—so essential to skin health—is often completely absent in modern food, the number of skin sufferers in all civilized countries has a tendency to increase every year.

Remarkable Discovery

A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a concentration of 99% and therefore named F"99". Thanks to this very high purity which was never attained up to now, F"99" is so readily absorbed into the blood stream, that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases. Its remarkable efficiency has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation.

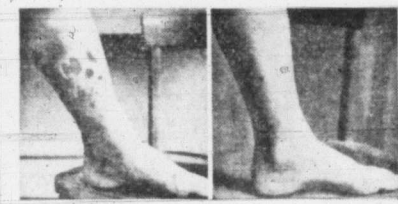

Natural way to clear up skin troubles

F"99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances. It is absolutely harmless and may be given even to infants without any hesitation. As its name suggests, the F"99" Two-Way Treatment acts internally (capsules or liquid) and externally (ointment). While F"99" Ointment treats the external symptoms, F"99" capsules give the body the power to suppress the cause to combat successfully Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and even Psoriasis. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F"99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value.

How to use F"99" Two-Way Treatment

Eczemas: F"99" Capsules and Ointment
Children's Eczemas: F"99" Liquid and Ointment
Boils (Furunculosis): F"99" Capsules and Ointment
Leg Ulcers: F"99" Capsules and Ointment
Psoriasis: F"99" Capsules and Ointment

Afterward, Farmer Brown's Boy declared Fat Johnny looked as if he had split his vest, because he was so fat, and had had it sewed

"Do Fat Johnny and Little Gentleman ever come in together?" asked Farmer Brown's Boy.

"No," Aunt Sally shook her head. "If one is in here the other waits. I fear they are not the best of friends. Anyway, each prefers to eat alone with me. Perhaps it is just as well. If they came together they might forget their manners."

She riched over on the table and picked up a big piece of cake. She held it out to Farmer Johnny. "Would you like a piece of my birthday cake?" she asked softly. "It is my 90th birthday today." She turned to Farmer Brown's Boy. "You never thought to see an 'old lady 90 years old sharing her birthday cake with a Woodchuck, did you?" she said.

HOLLYWOOD (UP). — Actor Lawrence Tierney, whose "tough guy" screen roles have been reflected in his off-stage life, was treated today in a hospital psychopathic ward after police found him babbling incoherently in a church.

The 32-year-old actor, who played gangster John Dillinger on the screen, was taken to the Los Angeles Neurological Institute ward in Santa Monica Sunday held by restraining straps after a fist fight with officers.

Policemen Roy Livingston and Don Cooke said they were called to St. Monica's Catholic Church early Sunday to investigate a "boisterous man."

They found Tierney, who has been arrested 12 times in the last seven years, kneeling barefoot before the church altar. Officer Cooke said Tierney appeared to be praying, but his words were gibberish.

Tierney had been in the psychiatric care since he was convicted recently of kicking a college student in the face during a pre-dawn brawl. He went to the church after escaping from his nurse-guard at his home, police said.

Bob Hope's Whirlwind Schedule Amazes Critics

By BOB THOMAS
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—How does he do it?

That's the question people ask when they see Bob Hope in action. He maintains a whirlwind schedule at an age when many men are cutting down on strenuous activities. To find out how he does it, I observed him at close range on one of his many junkets.

Hope and been enlisted for an event 400 miles away, and was in the middle of a picture and starting his air show.

Playing such a date involves more than the purchase of a plane ticket. First, the production schedule of "Son of Paleface" had to be arranged so he could be absent for a day.

Came the date of the appearance and Hope worked all day on the picture. (The day and night before had been spent in preparing and performing his air show at a navy base.) After the last shot, Hope hustled to the airport, where he boarded the plane for San Francisco. He caught a little sleep on the flight up.

He arrived refreshed and gave an interview on the drive to the city. At the hotel, he huddled with the convention officials to freshen his material with local gags.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

He also conferred with the orchestra leader and the pianist.

and with his fellow performers, Monica Lewis and Tony Martin. When his cue came, Hope strode into the banquet as assured as if it were his own living room. Then he gave out with a rapid fire series of gags, such as: "Have you heard the newest Point song—'Praise the Lord and Pass the Information'?" "I was playing golf the other day and I broke 70. That's all the clubs I had with me."

"I don't know how I'm doing at Paramount, but lately my producer's slaps on the back are getting lower."

The government has told Bing Crosby, "We'll give you Fort Knox if you'll give us what you've got hidden away."

League Of Roses To Run Amateur Entertainers' Test

An amateur entertainers' contest to start early in November is being sponsored by the League of Roses, Victoria branch. It was announced today by Reginald Clarke, president.

The contest will cover three age groups: up to 12, between 13 and 18, and over 18. Prizes will be awarded to winners of each group.

Contestants are asked to send their names to A. Blamire, secretary, 1785 Emmerson Street, with details as to what they intend to do and their ages.

Plan Changes In Blanshard Safety Isles

Traffic islands at the intersection of Blanshard and Douglas Street will be altered.

Three separate sets of plans have been received by City Council's transportation committee which will meet in two weeks to discuss them with public works officials.

"I disapprove of the present islands," said Ald. Waldo Skilling, chairman of transportation. "They do not assist traffic flow."

The two triangular islands were put in on a tentative basis only, and left unimproved or landscaped when Douglas Street was reconstructed up to Superior. The road repairs were to improve the entrance to Beacon Hill Park.

Plans now in the hands of the transportation committee were designed by Sgt. Brooke Douglas, head of the police traffic squad, Robert Doble, head of the city's traffic survey section, and City Engineer Cyril Jones.

The three plans vary in their approach to the traffic hazards, which the author of each considers paramount.

DOUGLAS SIGNS

Signs advising motorists that they are entering a synchronized traffic-light chain will be posted on Douglas Street north of Figgard and south of Fort, the transportation committee has ruled.

When the city's new streets traffic by-law comes into effect, city drivers will not have to turn left out of left-turn traffic lanes, the committee learned.

Sees No Prospect Of Coalition

LONDON (CP).—Winston Churchill said tonight there is no prospect of a coalition government in Britain "except under actual mortal danger." But he called for an end to party strife.

In an election broadcast, the Conservative leader referred to a coalition government for the first time since his Oct. 2 speech at Liverpool stirred speculation that

Coast Mission Seeks $200,000 For New Vessels

Rev. Canon D. Greene, superintendent of the Columbia Coast Mission, announced in his annual report that the mission's three boats need to be replaced. He estimates the cost of three new boats would be nearly $200,000.

"Many city parishes are spending a like sum on a new church which probably would serve a maximum of 2,000 souls," he noted. "Our mission touches the lives of more than 10,000 people."

The Columbia Coast Mission operates the combined mission-hospital ship Columbia, the mission vessels John Antle and Rendezvous, and St. Mary's Hospital in the Pender Harbor area.

he was calling for revival of Britain's wartime National government.

"In that speech he said Britain needs 'a period of steady, stable administration by a broadly based government wielding the national power and content to serve the nation's interest rather than give party satisfaction.'"

Tonight he said:

"We need a period of several years of solid, stable administration by a government, not seeking to rub party dogmas into everybody else."

"After the bitter wrangling of the last two years there is no prospect of a coalition except under actual mortal danger."

"Nevertheless, we need not magnify our differences. We have to make them more clear and not make them more wide."

Churchill said the country has lost a lot in the last two years by party strife which belonged to electioneering times.

"This uncertainty has got to come to an end at home if we are to play our part in the world and receive due consideration for our British point of view."

Still more, if we are to keep a decent standard of life for our people and even keep them all alive."

On foreign affairs, Churchill said:

"Unless you are armed and strong, you may make a bargain with them which might rid the world of the terror in which it now lies and relieve us all from much of the impoverishment and privations into which we shall otherwise certainly sink."

The Conservative leader recalled his proposal during the 1950 election for meetings with Russia at the highest level "to enable us at least to live peacefully together."

"This gesture, which I did not make without some knowledge of the personalities of forces involved, was curiously dismissed by the Socialist government as an electioneering stunt," he said.

"It might be that if such a meeting as I urged had taken place at that time the violent dangers of the Korean war and all that might spring out of it would not have come upon us."

Mr. J. Hansen, Vancouver, British Columbia, writes: "I suffered from backache for two years. I had tried everything but Sarnak. I had tried Sarnak and it worked. I am now a free man."

Mr. Gordon, Sudbury, Ontario, writes: "I suffered from backache for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain and made me feel so much more active. The pain was so bad I was unable to do my housework but since I started taking Sarnak the relief I have had from the pain allows me to do my work as usual."

Mrs. O. Prevost, R.R. 1, Chelmsford, Ontario, writes: "I suffered a great deal of pain with a backache which in turn made me very nervous. Although I had tried other remedies, nothing seemed to help me until I started taking Sarnak. Sarnak relieved my backache in three days although I had suffered for three years. This also resulted in relief for my nervous symptoms."

Mr. L. J. Apple, by Hazel, Ontario, writes: "I was troubled with a neuritic pain in my arm, backache and kidney trouble. I had tried everything but Sarnak. I had tried Sarnak and it worked. I am now a free man."

Are YOU Fair to Yourself?

or had you given up hope...

Are you suffering in any way? Can you find in the letters on this page other people who once suffered as you do now? If you can, then remember that these people and thousands like them once felt as you do now! Miserable, run down, nervous because of some kidney, liver and stomach upsets, arthritic or rheumatic pains, lack of vitality, nutritional anemia, bilious dizziness or indigestion.

Yes, perhaps many of these people were like you, fed up with trying this and that with no results!

What you see and hear you must believe! More people are buying Sarnak than any other medicine like it! Ask your druggist, he knows and will tell you how many people buy Sarnak from him and what it has done for so many of his customers.

You don't have to even risk your money to try Sarnak. Take advantage of the money-back offer above and do it now! As you probably know, from time to time Sarnak, because of the overwhelming demand, is in short supply. Right now your druggist and his wholesaler has a fresh quota.

Why take a rough and stony road through life if you are suffering one or more minor non-surgical symptoms that Sarnak can and will relieve? Some people took Sarnak for symptoms for which it is not recommended and that only a doctor should treat. We ask you to take Sarnak only for those symptoms for which it is intended! If Sarnak doesn't give you evident relief in three days, we refund your money!

* This offer good only until October 15, 1951.

Mr. Sid Iwan, Edmonton, Alberta, writes: "I am about 35 years old. I suffered with a minor kidney upset that gave me a great deal of bother. When I first heard about Sarnak I bought a bottle for what I thought was a joke because I had tried so many other pills and remedies that did not help me. I was sure that Sarnak would do no more than Sarnak did help me. It gave me real relief and I am very grateful to you for producing such a medicine."

Mr. John Wyl, R.R. 2, Ontario, Ontario, a retired, 74 years of age and is quite active. Mr. Wyl writes: "For four years I suffered stomach upsets after eating and a kidney disorder that made it necessary to get up frequently at night. After taking it for only 8 days, your medicine Sarnak has surely helped me. Now I can eat a good meal without any fear of after effects and I am always ready for my meals. I shall continue to take Sarnak."

Mrs. Mary S., Edmonton, Alberta, writes: "I suffered with a long time and my right leg troubled me a great deal with arthritic symptoms. Right from the first bottle of Sarnak I had relief and was surprised that by the time I had taken two bottles it had brought relief to my leg. I certainly recommend it to other sufferers."

He said there would be no trouble in selling the geese. Goslings, eight to 12 weeks old, are as much a delicacy as roast duckling.

Geese Flocks Pay Well For Fruit Farmer

OAKANAGAN FALLS (CP)—Geese are laying "golden eggs" for one fruit farmer near here.

Charles Oliver, who has a 15-acre stone fruit farm near here, tried 200 head of geese this year as controllers of orchard weeds and grass, and as revenue generators.

So far the experiment has been successful. Maurice King, range manager for Oliver, says the geese have been so successful that next year they plan to go 2,000 head and another 2,000 the following year.

The geese have a habit of camping at the edge of a pear orchard at night, King says. The three rows of trees affected look like a different variety, with greener, larger and thicker foliage than their neighbors.

The fruit also "sized" much better, he said.

"This pear patch is what real sold Mr. Oliver," King said.

He said there would be no trouble in selling the geese. Goslings, eight to 12 weeks old, are as much a delicacy as roast duckling.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Demand Royal Probe Into Indian Affairs

WINNIPEG (CP)—Demands for a royal commission to investigate Indian administration will be presented to the federal government, the Manitoba Indian Association said today.

The association, comprised of chiefs and councillors from reservations in Manitoba and Ontario, has engaged legal counsel to prepare and present their case.

They seek hunting and fishing privileges, agricultural assistance, absolute jurisdiction over the harvesting of wild rice and less control by Indian agents. However, the principal task of the royal commission would be to settle the question of "disputed lands" that once belonged to the Indians.

McDougald's Homer Spark

Clouts Grand Slammer As Yanks Rout New York Giants 13 To 1

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees, with the aid of a bases filled home run by rookie Gil McDougald, routed the New York Giants 13-1 today to take a three-to-two game lead in the world baseball series.

It was one of the most lopsided triumphs in world series history as the Giants went to pieces after McDougald's grand slammer broke the game wide open in the third inning. The score was tied at 1-1 when the Yankee rookie became the third player in series history to hit a home run with the bases filled.

From there the Yankees went on to blast starter Larry Jensen and relief pitchers Monte Kennedy, George Spencer, Al Corbin and Alex Konikowski. Southpaw Eddie Lopat hurled his second series victory. He had won the second game, with Jensen the victim, 3 to 1.

Only Konikowski escaped the Yankee run spree and he was able to do it because Gene Woodling tried to make an inside the park home run out of a triple.

RIZZUTO HITS HOMER

Jansen was taken out for a pinch hitter after that third inning nightmare and the Yankees went on to pound out 12 hits, including a fourth inning home run by Phil Rizzuto, off aspen with a late aboard in the fourth.

The Giants committed three errors, which added to the carnage, and their array of pitchers gave up eight walks and a wild pitch. It was Jansen's wildness which set up the big third. He walked Woodling and Phil Rizzuto with one out and then after getting Yogi Berra to ground into a force out yielded a single to Joe DiMaggio, playing his 50th world series game. That blow drove in Woodling with the run which tied the score. After Johnny Mize was purposely passed to load the bases, McDougald hit Jansen's second pitch into the left field seats.

MILK FARMERS ASK RIGHT TO DELIVER

Move Seen As Deliberate Effort To Eliminate Middle Man's Cost

By GORDON FORBES

Forty-one Victoria and district milk producers have applied to the Milk Board for permission to distribute their own milk in an effort to cut costs.

H. G. Robinson, secretary of the Vancouver Island Dairy-men's Association, said today the joint application is in the mail now. He hoped the board would give an early hearing.

Robinson did not elaborate on the plan, but it is clear that the move is aimed at cutting out "the middle man"—the distributors—with whom the producers seldom see eye to eye.

The 41 applicants represent nearly half the producers in and around Victoria.

"By pooling our own resources

we feel we can cut costs," declared Robinson.

The plan would require establishment of a large processing plant operated by the producers participating in the plan. There is a possibility that many more producers will join the move. The 41 names were placed on the application on a voluntary basis. No canvassing was carried out.

STRIKE ILLEGAL?

Meanwhile, the impending strike, which would dry up all Vancouver Island milk supplies, may be averted anyway because of legal technicalities.

Doubt is being expressed that the producers could strike without risking a breach of the law. Some producers apparently are afraid of this possibility, and are refraining from referring to the threatened action as a "strike". They prefer to say "there just won't be any milk around."

Asked if such a strike would be illegal, E. C. Carr, milk board chairman, said in a telephone interview from Vancouver he wasn't certain at this time, but it was a matter that would have to be investigated.

Public Utilities Commission officials, talking unofficially, were not certain either of the legality of a milk producers' strike, adding it would require a lot of study to determine. The commission has taken no active part in the issue.

CROWDS MEET ROYAL COUPLE

Princess, Duke Open Trans-Canada Tour

By DOUG HOW

Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—In friendly, relaxed fashion Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh moved through old Quebec today, opening their month-long Canadian tour.

Their was such casual, warm-hearted ease that to cheering crowds they seemed more like an ordinary young married couple than the Empire's heiress-presumptive and her consort.

After spending the night aboard the royal train at a siding at nearby Charly, Que., the Royal couple came to Wolfe's Cove under the ramparts of this capital of French Canada, sharp at 9:45 a.m. and plunged into a rigorous schedule.

At the waterfront, where they were originally scheduled to end an ocean crossing, the crowd was slim but hearty in its welcome. In upper town the people came out in droves, cheery and loud in their welcome.

Quebec's official welcome, from Lieutenant-Governor Fautoux and Premier Maurice Duplessis, was made at dockside so as to adhere to the original schedule of the tour, postponed a week because of the King's illness and operation. The Royal couple came here by train after ending a trans-Atlantic flight at Dorval, Que., yesterday.

By noon the Princess and the Duke had gone through the lower town greetings, visited the legislature and met those who make Quebec's laws; gone to Laval University and the City Hall and taken a three-mile drive through crowded streets made picturesque by the autumn leaf-coloring.

Arrive At Laval University

The visit of the legislature over, the Royal couple left the legislature buildings and arrived at Laval University about 12 minutes ahead of their schedule.

There they were greeted by Msgr. Maurice Roy, Quebec's Roman Catholic Archbishop, Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Quebec's Anglican Archbishop, and Msgr. Ferdinand Vandy, Rector of Laval.

Msgr. Vandy in a brief address of welcome in French told the Princess and her husband the University authorities were "very happy" to receive their visit.

The University rector showed the Princess Laval's charter, signed by Queen Victoria in 1862. Still ahead of their schedule, the Royal couple was driven over the old cobblestones and across the University courtyard up a hill and just across a square to city hall for the third golden book ceremony.

The Princess and the Duke disappeared under another awning into city hall where they spent five minutes meeting Mayor Borne and other city officials and their wives.

Mayor Borne made a brief address of welcome in English and then spoke in French as he presented the Princess with a miniature of the city's coat-of-arms in gold, silver and platinum. The coat-of-arms is mounted with a crown studded with seven rubies.

"How gracious!" exclaimed the Princess when she saw the miniature.

Throne Speech Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Following are highlights from the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of Parliament today:

A government agency will be created with power to proceed with the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway; either as a Canadian development or jointly with the U.S.

Legislation to implement $40-a-month pensions to all Canadians 70 and over beginning next January will be introduced. Parliament will be asked to ratify the dispatch of the 27th

Army Brigade and elements of the R.C.A.F. to Europe.

It also will be asked to ratify the invitation of Greece and Turkey to North Atlantic Treaty membership.

Legislation will be submitted on radio broadcasting and television, including provisions for a financial new deal for the C.B.

The government will take "every measure" thought effective to counteract inflation "without impairing our free institutions."

FINAL BULLETINS

Reds Want Cease-Fire Talks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Immediate resumption of Korean cease-fire talks was proposed Tuesday by the Communist high command in a note to Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

The message to Ridgway from Gen. Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai said the question of extending the neutral zone can be decided later at the full-dress conference.

The message was broadcast by the Peiping Radio and monitored here by the Associated Press.

Soon Know About Arena Ice

Arena manager Joe Dukowski said today he will not know until tonight or tomorrow morning whether ice will be available for Friday's scheduled Pacific Coast Hockey League opener at Memorial Arena.

Five additional leaks in the coils of the ice-making machinery were found today. "If we don't start pumping brine by noon tomorrow, it will be practically hopeless," Dukowski said.

Urges Aid To Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—The C.C.F. national council today urged the government to help western farmers out of a grain transportation crisis by giving them an advance payment for wheat stored on farms.

The same suggestion has been made by Walter Tucker, Saskatchewan's Liberal leader, but Trade Minister Howe, responsible for federal wheat sales, has made no move to develop the idea.

Fined, Boat Confiscated

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY, B.C. (CP)—Capt. Lee Edenshaw of Massett, B.C., had his boat and equipment worth $40,000 confiscated and was fined $300 here for fishing in restricted waters.

It was the biggest penalty ever imposed for illegal fishing in this area.

Princess Reviews Canadians

QUEBEC (CP)—Princess Elizabeth today reviewed 1,500 men of Canada's 27th Brigade and Defense Minister Claxton told the Canadian Press it was the brigade's "farewell parade."

Princess Elizabeth, who took the salute as the brigade marched past on the Plains of Abraham, expressed her pleasure with its appearance.

BRITAIN WARNS EGYPT

LONDON (CP)—Britain takes "the strongest exception" to the Egyptian action. Premier Mustafa El Pasha had before the Egyptian parliament Monday bills calling for the ousting of the British troops from the vital Suez Canal area and giving Egypt control of the Sudan.

Britain's right to maintain troops in the canal area, and her joint rule with Egypt over the Sudan are provisions of the 20-year treaty, signed in 1936 and which still has five years to run.

There was talk among diplomats in London that Egypt would demand the Sudan as her price for joining the new middle east defense system proposed by the western powers.

B.C. CATHOLICS MAY ORGANIZE FOR POLITICS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The formation of a Roman Catholic provincial political party in British Columbia was suggested here during the week-end.

The inaugural convention of the B.C. Roman Catholic Education Association said it would swing the province's 100,000 Catholics behind a new political party if no present party champions public support for Catholic schools.

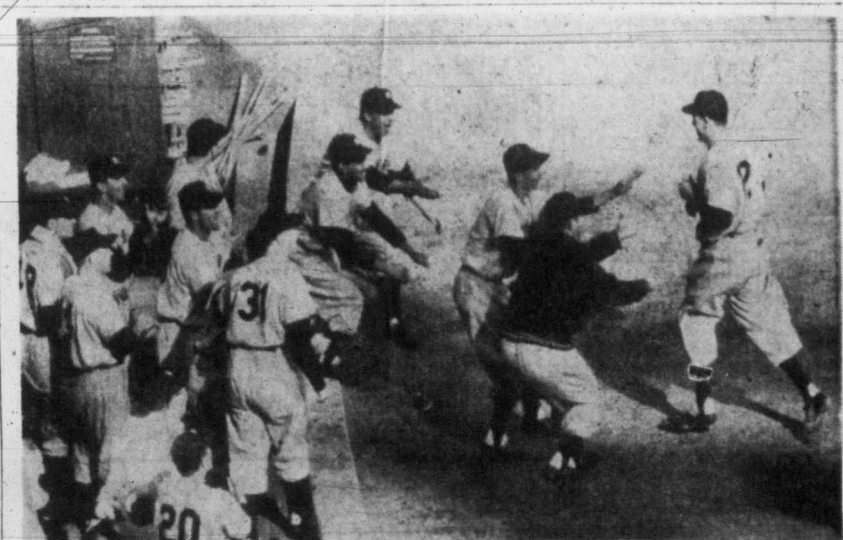

The association said a Catholic party could elect "at least 12 candidates" to the 45-member provincial legislature.

Former Athletic Given Tremendous Reception

New York Yankee second baseman Gil McDougald, left, is welcomed by teammates as they pour from dugout in reception committee after Gil's third inning grand slam home run gave club 5-1 lead over New York Giants in fifth world series baseball game at Polo Grounds today. Feet tied series record made in 1920 and 1936. Victorians took special interest in McDougald's performance as Gil was member of Victoria's Athletics in 1949 under manager Ted Norbert. Yanks went on to win game 13 to 1. (AP wirephoto.)
